Why Only Rich Men?
See the New Automobiles.
A Noise in the Dairy.
Foolish Chinese Bandits.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

OUR GOVERNMENT must select ambassadors to replace Dawes in London and Forbes in Tokio, and it is suggested that the chosen must be "men of wealth and suavity."

Suavity perhaps, although a little genuine Americanism might replace suavity. Why is the wealth necessary? Franklin and Jefferson didn't have it, yet they made good American ambassadors to France and to England in times just as trying as these.

Wouldn't a real American man be as good as a real American pocketbook?

THE THIRTY-SECOND national automobile show opens in New York City with interest as great as though the automobile were a new invention.

In many respects 1932 cars truly are "new." Those that have not seen them have surprises in store.

It is no exaggeration to say that seven hundred dollars and less, payable on easy terms, will buy in beauty, comfort, durability and luxury, what ten thousand dollars could not have bought a few years ago.

The accomplishments of the American automobile industry are so far ahead of all foreign competition as to make comparison out of the question.

IT IS SAID that ONLY two and one-half million automobiles will be made in America this year.

Think what an amazing accomplishment such a production represents, more than two billions of dollars invested in labor, and material produced by labor.

ONLY A FEW years ago, one "great automobile man" was rebuking Henry Ford's statement that Ford expected to make ten thousand cars a year. Said Ford's critic.

"He'll make the bankers lose confidence in us with such exaggerated statements."

Ford lived to make three million automobiles in a year and is still at it.

TO FIND NEW markets for more manufactures is today's problem. The attention of Mr. Aylesworth, of the National Broadcasting Company, and all that manufacture radio sets is called to the important announcement that disease and other germs in milk can be destroyed by sound as well as by heat.

SCIENCE MAY supply a milk purifying attachment for every radio, enabling the farmer to change ordinary milk to "certified milk" with ease.

It does not sound impossible in an age that uses electricity in place of ice, and in place of coal.

CHINESE BANDITS have trapped and killed 19 Japanese soldiers. That will cause the death of many Chinese bandits, a thousand for one and more.

The Japanese seem to be the only nation surviving the great war with an inclination to fight. Perhaps that is because they kept out of the big fight so carefully and wisely.

OTHER NATIONS talk as though the would fight "if." and "but." but they do not mean it, always arranging for a quick exit, should anybody take them too seriously.

France may carry out the threat to invade Germany, if Germany stops paying reparations. But that would be a parade, not a war.

Hitler says he would fight France, if he did, French airplanes could destroy as many German cities with high explosives, and kill as many Germans with poison gas, as might be thought desirable.

THE PROSECUTOR in Honolulu demands death for Lieut. Massie and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Fortescue, accused of killing a Hawaiian, one of five arrested for an attack on the 20-year-old wife of Lieut. Massie. Mrs. Fortescue's daughter.

Doctors at the hospital testified, after the repeated attacks made on her by five Hawaiians, of whom the murdered man was alleged to be one, that Mrs. Massie, the 20-year-old white woman, had her jaw broken, and was covered with bruises from head to foot.

It does not seem probable that there will be any execution in connection with that matter, at least no execution of any white woman.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS gentlemen believe that Japan may blockade China in revenge for the Chinese boycott on Japanese goods. This would prevent China from buying goods from anybody. The League doesn't like that idea and it would be particularly unpleasant for Britain to get such a dose of her own medicine.

It interests us, because it would give our State Department a chance to do or say something else foolish, and then hop back with a polite "Oh, excuse me, it wasn't said seriously," in case Japan should notice us.

ALMOST EVERYTHING else having been tried to solve the unemployment problem, all the communities in Winslow Township, New Jersey, decided to give prayer a trial.

Fourteen communities with a total population of 5,000 will pray in the churches every day this week.

LARGE COMMUNITIES like New York City, that have come to the end of their philanthropic rope, will watch the results with interest.

One statesman who believes in action suggests a law that would compel employers to put men to work. That would be interesting also.

HAWAII CRISIS STUDIED BY HOOVER

$8,000 JOBS CREATED BY COUNTY

Defeated Candidates Placed In Shakeup; Two Women On Planning Commission

The new County Commissioners today started their revision of their offices' personnel and with it established a new County Planning Commission and a series of reductions in minor salaries which they said would save the county $9,060 yearly in the Commissioners' office alone.

Four major appointments announced were:

Ray Sprigle, city editor of the Post-Gazette, as director of property and supplies, a new job, paying $8,000 yearly. Sprigle lives in Moon Township.

Frank J. Chester, formerly of McKeesport, now of the Fourth Ward, as director of highways, another new job paying the same as Sprigle's. Chester is president of the Lake Asphalt and Petroleum Company.

CORBETT, REES NAMED

James O. Corbett, of Carnegie, defeated candidate on the Independent ticket for County Recorder, as registrar in the Bureau of Deed Registry. He succeeds Albert C. Krugh, of the South Side.

Maj. William T. Rees, defeated Independent candidate for controller, as chief clerk at a salary of $6,000 yearly, to succeed William Ziefel.

The position of assistant chief clerk, paying $4,500 yearly and held during past administrations by James E. Routley, was discontinued.

These six appointments were made to the Allegheny County Planning Commission:

S. J. Topley, clerk of courts, an incumbent; Gen. A. J. Logan and Mrs. Mary Flinn Lawrence, to full terms, and Charles P. Howe, of Tarentum; Mrs. J. O. Miller and E. R. Crawford, president of the McKeesport Tin Plate Company, brother of the mayor of Duquesne, to partially expired terms.

SALARY CUTS

The Commissioners accepted the resignations of Attorneys W. G. Negley and Joseph I. Winslow, research counsel for the Board of Assessment and Revision of Taxes.

HOLMES, 90, QUITS AS JUSTICE

'Grand Old Man' of American Bench Resigns; Hoover Pays Tribute to Jurist

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Oliver Wendell Holmes, the grand old man of American jurisprudence, laid aside his judicial robes today and resigned from the bench of the United States Supreme Court with this quiet statement:

"The time has come and I bow to the inevitable."

Nearing the ninety-first anniversary of his birth, he has found this winter the duties of the bench too onerous for his advancing years and failing health, and he chose thus to go simply while he could, rather than attempt to carry on against insuperable difficulties.

ASSISTED BY HUGHES

It was noticed in the court yesterday during decisions that Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes had to assist him gently to his accustomed place on the bench. But the venerable, white-haired justice delivered two of the court's opinions nevertheless.

President Hoover made the announcement of Justice Holmes' resignation regretfully at the White House, and in so doing stated the he knew of no American retiring from public service "with such a sense of affection and devotion of the whole people."

Justice Holmes, in his letter of resignation to the President, said:

"The condition of my health makes it a duty to break off connections that I cannot leave without deep regret after the affectionate relations of many years and the absorbing interests that have filled my life. I have nothing but kindness to remember from you and from my brethren. My last word should be one of grateful thanks."

HOOVER TRIBUTE

President Hoover's reluctant acceptance asserted:

"No appreciation I could express would even feebly represent the gratitude of the American people for your whole life of wonderful public service, from the time you were an officer in the Civil War to this day."

Thus passed from the bench after 30 years "the great dissenter" and "the great liberal." He probably issued more dissening opinions than any other justice who ever sat on the bench. He was noted for his unvarying support of human rights as against property rights.

Together with his close friend and associated, Justice Louis D. Brandeis, the great Jewish liberal, now approaching his seventy-sixth year, he made famous the phrase:

"Justice Holmes and Brandeis dissenting."

SON OF POET

The son of Oliver Wendell Holmes, the poet, he began a brilliant law career after the Civil War, in which he was wounded. He was appointed to the Supreme Court by President Theodore Roosevelt in 1902.

On December 8, last, he completed his thirtieth year on the United States Supreme bench. He was by far the oldest member in point of service.

On the occasion of his ninetieth birthday he himself seemed to recognize the inevitable, for in a brief broadcast message that day to the thousand of messages of love and affection he received, he said:

"Death plucks my ear and says, 'I am coming.'"

CRIME WAVE DISCUSSED BY CABINET

Adams Insists Consent of Navy Be Given Before Men Are Delivered for Trial

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—(AP.)—At the White House and on Capitol Hill crime conditions in Honolulu were discussed today while the Justice Department considered whether to send a high official there to investigate.

The problem growing out of a reported series of attacks on white women was brought up by President Hoover at the regular cabinet meeting.

Details of the discussion at the White House were withheld. Secretary Adams said the Hawaiian matter had been "brought up for general discussion by the cabinet," but would not say what, if any, action had been decided upon or whether an effort would be made to have Mrs. Granville R. Fortescue extradited to this country for trial.

ADAMS BALKS QUIZ

Mrs. Fortescue, Washington society matron and wife of the famous soldier who served with the 80th Division in France, is being held aboard a warship in Hawaii, where she is facing first degree murder charges in connection with the slaying of a native accused as one of five men who attacked her daughter, Mrs. Thomas Massie, Lieut. Massie, her son-in-law, and two Navy enlisted men, also will be tried for murder.

Secretary Adams was asked:

"Do you favor bringing Mrs. Fortescue back to this country?"

After a 30-second hesitation, he replied:

"I cannot answer that."

Navy Department officials said Secretary Adams had given instructions that he was to be communicated with and must give his consent before Massie and the two enlisted men are turned over to civil authorities for trial.

TRIAL NOT OPPOSED

No objection was anticipated to a civil trial for the three men, but the department is closely following events.

Meanwhile a subcommittee was being named in the House to go over details of the latest incidents presented to the Naval Committee by Admiral Pratt, chief of naval operations.

These included, in addition to the attack upon Mrs. Massie, A report from Rear Admiral Stirling of the Hawaiian district recounting other incidents of violence.

As the committee went into session, it heard from Delegate House

MELLON PROBE TO BE PUBLIC

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—(AP.)—Impeachment charges against Secretary Mellon by Representative Patman will be considered at a public hearing tomorrow by the House Judiciary Committee.

The committee reached this decision today behind closed doors. Chairman Sumners said:

"We agreed on a public hearing to consider the sufficiency of the charges against Secretary Mellon. Mr. Mellon will be advised that he may be represented at the hearing."

So far, Patman, a Texas Democrat, is the only witness who has signified he desired to be heard. Patman is author of a resolution seeking impeachment of the veteran treasury head.

He charges that Mellon has violated laws prohibiting the secretary of the Treasury from engaging in business.

MAN TRAPPED IN STORE SLAIN

Trapped in what police said was his second raid of the night on a chain grocery store, Harry Young, 32, of 834 Pennsylvania avenue, Coraopolis, was shot through a lung early today and died a few hours later in the Sewickley Valley Hospital.

Police said Young had been living in Detroit under the name of Frank Nagle for seven years after deserting his wife. He returned about two months ago.

Shortly after midnight, Coraopolis police received a tip that a man had just left the rear door of a chain grocery store at 1227 State street.

Sergt. Henry Rhodes and Patrolman Sam Rowe found Young entering the store. Rowe followed him in and was attacked, both officers said. In the struggle Young was shot through the lung.

Capone Wins Hearing on Appeal

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—(INS.)—Al Capone today was granted a hearing on his appeal from the Federal Court's sentence of 11 years for income tax evasion, and the date was set for February 9 in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—(AP.)—Judge James H. Wilkerson, of Chicago, who recently sentenced Al Capone, was advanced from the District to the Circuit bench today by President Hoover in recognition of his services in breaking up gangster activities in Chicago.

57 Firemen Injured In Bridgeport Blaze

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Jan. 12.—(INS.)—Fifty-seven Bridgeport firemen were overcome or injured early today in a spectacular six-hour blaze in the business district. Loss was estimated at $300,000.

Hoover's Grandson Undergoes Operation

PASADENA, Cal., Jan. 12.—(INS.)—Alarm was felt today over the condition of Herbert Hoover III, grandson of President and Mrs. Herbert Hoover, following an operation for an infected sinus.

Certain symptoms caused apprehension for the 4-year-old child, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hoover, Jr., and a consultation of specialists was called.

Arkansas Electing Widow of Caraway

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 12.—(AP.)—Arkansas held an election today to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator Thaddeus H. Caraway, and the state generally considered the selection of his widow, Mrs. Hattie W. Caraway, assured. Victory for Mrs. Caraway would make her the only women ever elected to the United States Senate.

Anna Held Estate Valued at $220,000

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—(INS.)—Thirteen years after her death, the appraisal of the estate of Anna Held, famous actress, was filed today and showed gross assets of $237,859 and a net of $220,757. The bulk of the estate goes to her daughter, Liana Carrera. A $1,000 brooch was left to Mrs. Lillian Russell Moore, now dead.

Rome Pastoral Visit Ordered by Pope

VATICAN CITY, Jan. 12.—(INS.)—Pope Pius today promulgated a bull ordering a pastoral visit to Rome, which will be the first in 25 years.

Cardinal Vicary will officiate in services, generally led by the Pope.

GIRL BATTLES GUNMAN HOUR

Battling an armed thug for more than an hour early today, Miss Anna Gleboff, 18, of Butler, a nursemaid in a home at 2529 Center avenue, fought off her assailant and escaped unharmed.

A suspect was arrested a short time later at Center and Bedford avenues by Radio Patrolmen Thomas Mead and Albert Miller. He said he was Samuel Hall, 19, Negro, of Fonville street.

Identified by the girl at Center Avenue Police Station, Hall confessed, police say.

Describing the attack, Miss Gleboff, employed in the home of Julius I. Gusky, said she was awakened by the cries of one of the babies she attends.

Falling asleep soon after returning to her room, Miss Gleboff was awakened by a hand on her arm.

The Negro grappled with her.

Battling against him, the girl said, he pulled her from the bed and at the point of a revolver forced her to accompany him to the first floor.

He threatened she said:

"If you make an outcry, I'll blow your brains out."

Pleading with him to desist, Miss Gleboff said the Negro announced his intention of robbing the place. She said:

"Don't do that. I'll give you money. I'll give you $10. It's up in my room and I'll throw it down to you."

The Negro left the house and Miss Gleboff awakened Gusky.

REPAIRED HERE

An airplane racing death made a forced landing at Rainbow Gardens, a roadhouse near McKeesport, shortly after noon today.

It was en route from New York to Tucson, Ariz., where oxygen is needed to save the life of a patient in a sanitarium.

Neither the pilots, Stuart Reiss and Robert Calloway, both Curtiss-Wright fliers out of New York, nor the 500-pound oxygen room—in which the patient is to be placed—were injured.

It was the second forced landing of the day for the ship, which left New York at dawn and was forced down only a few miles away.

The trouble, the pilots said, was due to the motor using an unusual amount of gasoline.

At Rainbow Gardens, the oxygen chamber was transferred to a truck and taken to Bettis Field, where the fliers flew their plane. The defect in the carburetion was repaired.

It was planned to reload the ship and start for the west, with Chester Pickup, Bettis Field pilot, flying in place of Calloway.

McKeesport Students Strike

More than 25 members of the McKeesport High school football squad dropped out of school today as a protest against the intimated release of Athletic Coach William Sullivan, hero of the students and the city. Petty jealousies are given as the reason the coach will not be rehired.

The failure to renew Sullivan's contract became known at a meeting of the school board last night, when action on Sullivan was referred to the teachers' committee, an equivalent to firing. The action occurred despite protest of the football team and the Monogram Club. Sullivan played at the University of Pennsylvania and has turned out exceptionally successful teams in his three seasons at McKeesport.

'Bomb' Proves Rare Coin, Gift to King Victor

NAPLES, Italy, Jan. 12.—(AP.)—The clerks in the postoffice stepped back in alarm today when, as they combed through thousands of sacks of mail brought by the steamer Excalibur, they uncovered a suspicious-looking package from the United States labelled "medals" and addressed to the King.

It was only four inches long, but the bomb squad took it into a vacant lot so that nobody would be hurt when it exploded.

Carefully, they removed the wrapping while an expert stood by with advice. They disclosed an American 50-cent piece dated 1832.

With it was a note to his Majesty from Modestino de Rosa, a barber in New Jersey. It said:

"I send you this coin, 100 years old in token of my affection."

His Majesty Victor Emanuel is a numismatist.

As the search continued, the clerks discovered and opened two more packages, one for the King and one for Premier Mussolini.

They were photograph albums from admirers in the United States.

Clara Bow, Victim Of Cold, Recovering

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 12.—(AP.)—Confined to her home several days with a severe cold, Clara Bow, red-haired film actress, was today reported well on the road to recovery.

Pinchot Names Ex-Convict To Penitentiary Board

HARRISBURG, Jan. 12.—(AP.)—A former prisoner at the Eastern State Penitentiary today was appointed by Gov. Pinchot as a trustee of that prison. He is Henry G. Brock, of Muncy, succeeding Dr. Herbert M. Goddard, of Philadelphia, whose term expired.

In 1923 Brock, a banker and society leader, was sentenced to serve 3 to 10 years in the Eastern Penitentiary for running down and killing three persons with his automobile while intoxicated. On June 16, 1926, he was pardoned.

Since his incarceration Brock has been interested in prison welfare work. After being pardoned, he served as a member of the board of inspectors of the Philadelphia County Prison, and operated a store to sell ship models manufactured by prisoners at the Eastern State Penitentiary.

A week after his pardon by Gov. Pinchot, Brock was married to Miss Margaret Cust Burgwin, of Pittsburgh, and they took up their residence at Muncy.

U. S. JOB AID NEEDED TO SAVE SOCIETY, LA FOLLETTE SAYS

SENATOR ASKS IMMEDIATE RELIEF

Progress of 50 Years Will Be Wiped Out If Action Is Not Taken, He Says

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—The most immediate problem facing the country is to provide adequate relief for the millions of unemployed and their dependents, Senator La Follette (Rep.) of Wisconsin, declared here last night in a nation-wide radio broadcast.

In pleading that federal aid be sought, he associated himself and Senator Costigan (Dem.) of Colorado, La Follette said:

"Social progress made during the last 50 years will be wiped out unless action is taken quickly. Social workers, city managers, mayors from important industrial centers have revealed a condition which, if permitted to go unchecked, will undermine our institutions.

"Standards of relief have been so reduced by exhaustion of funds and by an increase in the load due to diminishing resources of the unemployed that we are now providing for the destitute only on a famine relief basis.

"Families are being broken up, children abandoned, housing conditions are unsanitary due to overcrowding, malnutrition is taking its toll among children and adults, the tuberculosis mortality rate, for the first time in years, will show an increase—all due to the unprecedented burden of relief and to the inadequacy of the funds which are now available to meet the problem.

"While the President's reconstruction Finance Corporation may do something toward preventing bankruptcies and further decline of security values, it can and will do nothing to put purchasing power at the disposal of those whose purchasing power has been curtailed or wiped out.

"Loaning money to the steel corporation will not produce orders for steel. Loaning money to railroads may prevent receiverships but it will not create traffic. On the other hand, a public works program will create instant orders for materials and instant traffic for the railroads."

VOTE SPEEDED ON LOAN BILL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—(INS.)—The administration's $2,000,000,000 reconstruction corporation bill designed to breathe new life into credit channels will go to the President next week, Speaker John N. Garner of the House, predicted today.

The bill passed by the Senate last night will be voted on by the House tomorrow.

The measure then will go to conference with the Senate for agreement upon many differences.

A barrage of amendments awaited the measure as the House continued general debate today.

Radio Advertising Curb to Be Studied

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—(INS.)—The Federal Radio Commission was called upon by the Senate today to explain what steps can be taken to reduce the amount of commercial advertising broadcast over the radio.

A resolution by Senator Couzens (Rep.), of Michigan, was adopted calling for information on possible regulation of radio advertising. Couzens asked the commission to state whether commercial advertising could be eliminated entirely.

71 New Cases Put Under Quarantine

The City Department of Health today reports these new cases in quarantine: Scarlet fever, 13; diphtheria, 3; measles, 34; whooping cough, 2; chicken pox, 9; mumps, 6; and pneumonia, 4.

Bank Closes Doors For Reorganization

LANCASTER, Pa., Jan. 12.—(AP.)—The Lancaster Trust Company was closed today while business leaders worked with bank officials to raise $1,000,000 to effect a reorganization.

OVER THE HILL -:- By Quin Hall

GIRL BURGLAR SENT TO PEN

One of the few women to serve time on a burglary charge in the county, Miss Edna Laney, 24, a domestic, of Oakmont, was ordered to the workhouse from six months to three years by Judge James H. Gray today. She pleaded guilty, admitting she entered the office of J. M. Witherspoon & Son, 561 Allegheny avenue, Oakmont, November 25, obtaining $21.

Her alleged accomplice, Earl Snyder, 28, of Oakland, was given from two to six years in Western Penitentiary after pleading guilty. Two others involved, Anthony Bianco, 26, and his wife, Dorothy, 22, of Oakland, were paroled for two years.

'Kidnaped' Child Taken by Mother

Jean Wessel, 7, reported kidnaped from the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wessel of 944 Broadway, East McKeesport, is with her mother in Baltimore, county detectives said today.

The child's mother, now married to Dr. M. F. Anderson, a Baltimore dentist, telephoned her divorced husband, Francis Wessel, last night, that she had taken the child to Baltimore.

$570,000 City Bond Sale Again Fails

Sale of $570,000 city improvement bonds failed today, the second time in two months. Only one bid was submitted and it was ruled out on a technicality by Controller James P. Kerr. Two months ago no person bid on the issue of $420,000 for public improvements and $150,000 for street widening in connection with the West End-North Side Bridge approach.

Aspinwall Hospital Job Bid Opening Set

Bids for the construction of an addition to the Veterans Hospital at Aspinwall, estimated to cost $500,000, will be opened March 3 by the Veterans Administration in Washington, according to word received here today. The addition will consist of a new wing, providing 200 additional beds and an administration building.

1 HURT AS FIRE SWEEPS HOMES

Capt. James Rogan, of No. 16 Engine Company, was slightly injured early today fighting a fire which swept through two houses at 6438-6440 Dean street, with an estimated damage of $5,000.

The fire originated in a vacant house at 6438 Dean street and spread to the home of Stephen Flaherty at 6440 Dean street. Flaherty, his wife, Mary, and three children, Mary, Stephen, Jr., and Edward, escaped unaided.

After receiving medical treatment at Mercy Hospital, the injured fireman returned to duty.

GAS OVERCOMES TWO WOMEN

Two women, overcome by gas fumes from a heater in the basement of a North Side home, were taken to a hospital shortly before 2 p. m. today. Their condition was not believed to be serious.

Police said the women, Mrs. Elsie Hoellermen, 32, and Mrs. Emma Kryl, 27, with their husbands, had moved into an apartment at 1207 High street last night. This morning, the women went to the basement to do some washing. An open gas heater was burning there.

A few minutes later the women came back to the apartment and collapsed, the husbands said.

Warburg Seriously Ill of Pneumonia

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—(INS.)—Paul M. Warburg, 63, banker, was gravely ill today as a result of an attack of pneumonia. He contracted the illness last Friday, at which time he was recovering from a slight stroke.

Warburg is chairman of the Manhattan Company and of the International Acceptance Bank, Inc.

STATE STARTS LEGAL TEST OF TALBOT BILL

Schnader Action May Freeze $10,000,000 Appropriated As Poor District Fund

International News Service.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 12.—Action which, if it is sustained, might "freeze" the $10,000,000 appropriated to poor districts by the Talbot bill and prevent distribution of the relief funds, was started today by Attorney General William A. Schnader.

Schnader questioned the jurisdiction of the Dauphin County Court in acting on the petition of the Dauphin poor district, which is seeking the December payment provided by the Talbot bill in a move designed to test the constitutionality of the measure. The Attorney General asked that the poor district's actions be dismissed.

Argument on Schnader's petition probably will take place on Friday, according to Judge Frank B. Wickersham.

In his petition, Schnader contended that the poor district is not entitled to apply in the local courts for a declaratory judgment because it is not a person beneficially interested under the provisions of the law.

He declared that no other proceedings either in equity or in law could be instituted to sue the commonwealth for an act of the Legislature.

Schnader has already declared the Talbot bill unconstitutional.

ORDERS FARLEY TO ANSWER QUIZ

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 12.—(INS.)—Gov. Roosevelt today requested Sheriff Thomas M. Farley, powerful Tammany chieftain, to answer the charges preferred against him by Samuel Seabury, counsel to the Hofstadter Committee which is investigating New York City.

Seabury in a letter to Gov. Roosevelt on December 30, insisted that Sheriff Farley's alleged inability to explain why his bank accounts were so much larger than his salary was sufficient ground for his removal from office.

Testifying before the Hofstadter Committee, Sheriff Farley said he kept his money in a "tin box."

Mae Murray Denies Tax Expert's Charge

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 12.—(AP.)—Mae Murray, film actress, made another court appearance yesterday in defense of a $2,250 suit brought against her by Miss J. Marjorie Berger, income tax expert.

Miss Berger told Superior Judge C. A. Stutsman that Miss Murray failed to pay her for 54 days of work on income tax returns. Miss Murray denied the charge.

STIMSON LOAN INTERVENTION CHARGED

Banker Witness Tells of Secretary's Protest on Refusal to Pay Balance

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—When the National City Company objected to paying a $4,000,000 balance to Colombia on a $20,000,000 loan grantedthat country, Secretary ofState Stimson sent a representative of the State Department to protest the bank's action and urged the payment of the money, the Senate Finance Committee was informed today.

Victor Schoepperle, vice president of the firm, testified the State Department interposed on behalf of Colombia following his complaint Colombia had failed to balance its budget as it had promised to do when the loan was granted.

RELUCTANT WITNESS

Schoepperle, an extremely reluctant witness, reversed himself several times and vigorously denied Senator Johnson's charge there was a direct connection between the State Department's interest in the Colombian loan and the enactment of legislation by Colombia which restored the validity of the Barco oil concession, owned by the Gulf Oil Company, a Mellon corporation.

Johnson read a statement made by President Olaya on August 7, 1931, in which he said:

"Secretary of the Treasury Mellon told me to speed up the settlement of the oil problems in order to make possible the financial recovery of the country."

Pressed by Johnson, Schoepperle admitted the State Department had no "right to intervene in a private loan."

DENIES KNOWLEDGE

Schoepperle at first denied knowing anything about the Barco concession. After persistent questioning by Johnson he finally admitted he had "read" about it and had talked "briefly" regarding the matter with George Rublee, adviser of the late Dwight W. Morrow, who had gone to Colombia to "advise" President Olaya regarding the petroleum legislation that settled the Barco dispute.

Schoepperle insisted he had no interest in the petroleum controversy and that the question was in no way related to the granting of the loans. He declared his objections to paying out the balance of the loan had no connection with the Barco controversy.

He stated his counsel had come to him and told him the State Department had protested his objection to paying to the $4,000,000 balance to Colombia.

Following the department's complaint Schoepperle said he had "changed his point of view" about the budget reforms and permitted the money to be paid to Colombia.

JAPAN DENIES RUSS FOE PLOT

TOKIO, Jan. 12.—(INS.)—Russia today expressed apprehension to Japan over the situation in North Manchuria, it was understood in reliable circles here, declaring her interests were menaced by White Russians, who openly boasted they were going to establish a republic with the backing of Japan.

The Russian ambassador paid a formal visit to Premier Inukai to plead his case, and the Premier was said to have denied Japan's intention of aiding such a movement.

MUKDEN, Jan. 12.—(INS.)—Two Japanese officers and 30 soldiers were killed today when a cavalry detachment was virtually wiped out by Chinese irregulars in the second bloody defeat the Japanese suffered within three days in their advance toward Jehol.

U. S. Gunboat Routs Chinese Pirates

HANKOW, China, Jan. 12.—(AP.)—Chinese pirates boarded a Standard Oil Company launch 130 miles above Hankow in the Yangtze River today and were driven off by the American gunboat Oahu.

The brigands attacked the boat in midstream, captured it and held four of the crew for ransom. They had begun to loot the vessel when the Oahu appeared. They fled over the side, but fired the launch. The American crew was saved.

Pola Ill, Einsteins Visit Untermeyer

PALM SPRINGS, Cal., Jan. 12.—(AP.)—Dr. and Mrs. Albert Einstein, spending a few days at this desert resort, paid a visit yesterday to Samuel Untermeyer, New York lawyer, confined to his bed by illness.

The couple was to have visited Pola Negri, screen star, here recovering from a recent operation, but the luncheon was postponed when Miss Negri suffered a slight setback.

Advertisers Warned On Price Cutting

Warning that price-cutting to the extent of doing red-ink business is not a solution to present economic problems was sounded before the Pittsburgh Advertising Club today at its luncheon in the William Penn Hotel by Jay E. Mason, publishing director of the Business Week.

The manufacturer as well as the retail merchant was warned of serious consequences.

Jake the Barber Placed in Jail

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 12.—(AP.)—Omer N. Custer, publisher of the Galesburg, Ill., Register Mail, today announced his candidacy for Republican nomination for governor.

COUNTY MAKES APPOINTMENTS

The salary cuts announced were:

David Hardie, warrant clerk, from $3,300 to $3,000 yearly.

Murray Snyder, secretary of the board, $3,600 to $3,500.

Rose Danahey, secretary to Chairman McGovern, $3,600 to $3,500.

The secretaries of the other Commissioners, yet to be appointed, $3,100 to $2,500.

Five clerks from $225 to $175 monthly.

Two stenographers, $200 to $150.

One chauffeur, the chairman's, from $180 to $170.

The other two Commissioners' chauffeurs from $180 to $160.

SET STARTING PAY

The Commissioners decided that all clerks entering county employ in the future will be started at $150 monthly. If their services are satisfactory the pay will increase to $160 at the end of the first three months, $170 at the end of the half year, and $175 at the start of the second year.

The appointments and salary cuts become effective Saturday.

CHANGES APPROVED

The Commissioners, sitting as the Salary Board, approved the salary changes, then named the 10 highest of 15 banks bidding as county depositories and five of 11 banks bidding as depositories for the Pension Fund. Said Chairman C. C. McGovern:

"The object in making the salary changes is to set an example for other county officers and to standardize pay for certain classes of employment. Some stenographers who have been here for years are still making $150 a month, others here since last year are making $250. Our idea is to start everybody off at the minimum."

Texas Students Seek Missing Scientist

AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 12.—(AP.)—Students of the University of Texas were enlisted in a search today for Dr. Joseph Muller, 41, associate professor of zoology of the university and winner of the American Association for the Advancement of Science prize in 1928.

Dr. Muller disappeared from his home Sunday. William McGill, of the student publications office, reported Dr. Muller had appeared nervous and depressed for several days as a result of overwork in his laboratory.

POE DENOUNCES DRY 'SNOOPING'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—(INS.)—Prohibition agents were assailed as the Cheka (Soviet secret police) of America today by Edgar Allan Poe, Jr., Maryland representative of the Crusaders, militant anti-prohibition organization.

Appearing before the Metcalf Senate committee hearing on legalization of beer, Poe said the people of the country were becoming gradually aggravated at the prohibition law enforcement officers.

Representative Clancy (Rep.), Michigan, urged "some form" of the Canadian liquor control system for this country, and Representative Karch (Dem.), Illinois, advocated a "local retail stores" system of beer distribution.

Meanwhile Senator Brookhart (Rep.), of Iowa, was challenged by Senator Metcalfe (Rep.), of Rhode Island, to produce proof of his charges that newspapers and press associations are engaged in a conspiracy to "carry wet propaganda." He said:

"It is my belief that press associations and correspondents have reported hearings as fairly as possible. I invite evidence to the contrary."

Prisoner Brown in North Side Police Court today as he was held on a bigamy charge even as two wives testified that they still loved him. Wife No. 1 (left), mother of two children: "Yes, I still love him." Wife No. 2: "Yes, I still love him in a way, he didn't give me a square deal."

Miner Held as Bigamist, 2 Wives Avow Love

The two young wives of Robert Brown, Jr., 27, of Mollenauer admitted they still loved him following a hearing in North Side Police Court today, at which he was held on a bigamy charge.

Said Wife No. 1, Mrs. Anne Stiger Brown, 21, of St. Anne's Stop, Castle Shannon, mother of two children:

"Yes, I still love him."

Wife No. 2, also 21, who was Anna Tronosky, of Mollenauer, qualified her loyalty:

"Yes, I still love him in a way, but I don't think he gave me a square deal."

Brown and Wife No. 1 were arrested yesterday in a rooming house at 723 Pressley street, on complaint of the landlord who informed police, they testified, that he had been abusing his wife and was disorderly. Her eye was discolored when she appeared at the hearing.

Wife No. 1 testified she and Brown had been married in 1927 by a clergyman after they had presented a false affidavit that they had been married by a justice of the peace at Wellsburg, W. Va.

Wife No. 2, arrested last night in Mollenauer, testified she and Brown were married last August 11 in the Courthouse after Brown assured her his first marriage was illegal.

Brown, a coal miner and auto mechanic, testified he thought his first marriage was null inasmuch as the ceremony had been performed on false representations.

Rudy Defends Crooners, Says They're Necessary

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—(INS.)—William Cardinal O'Connell, of Boston, who told an audience of 3,000 Sunday that "radio crooning is a degenerate form of singing," was answered today by the leading radio crooners. Rudy Vallee said:

"Crooners are necessary because of the limited range of the microphone. A soft voice registers better than a strong one. The problem is one the radio engineers have to solve, not the singers.

"Crooning is not as easy as many imagine. Most singers lose the pitch when they attempt to sing softly."

Bing Crosby defended the style of singing, although insisting he himself was not a crooner. He said:

"A crooner uses a half voice, singing the top notes in a falsetto."

The cardinal, who had attacked radio singing at a Holy Name Society meeting at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross, is known as a lover of good music and prefaced his remarks by saying he was speaking as such.

MURDER INDICTMENT SOUGHT AGAINST CHILD'S SLAYER

CELLAR OPENED IN SEARCH FOR MORE BODIES

Officials Speed Efforts to Send Cincinnati Kidnaper, Killer to Electric Chair

CINCINNATI, Jan. 12.—(AP.)—Wheels of justice were set in motion today to dispose quickly of the case of Charles Bischoff, 45, the confessed kidnaper and slayer of 6-year-old Marian McLean.

Seeking a first degree murder indictment, County Prosecutor Robert N. Gorman arranged to present the case to the grand jury today.

If convicted on a first degree murder charge, Bischoff, unless granted mercy, will be sentenced to die in the electric chair.

It was 21 days from the time Marian's body was found in Bischoff's tenement cellar until he confessed, early yesterday, that it was he who lured her from her play, took her to his cellar and attacked her, leaving her to die.

MORE BODIES SOUGHT

Although Bischoff, a cobbler, related the child was dead Friday morning, December 18, about 12 hours from the time she was kidnaped, the Coroner said the girl had been dead not more than 24 hours when her body was found December 22.

This, with several other statements in the shoemaker's confession, is to be investigated further, Gorman said.

Meanwhile, Willis Walker, Newtown, O., began an examination of the cellar to find whether there is evidence of similar crimes, unsolved.

Two other little girls have been kidnaped here within the past 15 years and never were found. A third disappeared, and her body was left on her parents' doorstep a few days later.

Bischoff last night remained apparently unemotional, although expressing sorrow for the deed. He expected to go to the electric chair, he said.

'GLAD THEY GOT HIM'

His relatives were slow to believe his story. Mrs. Elizabeth Rothert, his aunt, said:

"I can't believe Charlie would do it. But if it is true, I think neither I nor the girls (Bischoff's two sisters) will come to his defense."

Marian's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McLean, said:

"We are glad they got him before he could do the same thing to some other baby."

If an indictment is forthcoming today, Bischoff will be taken into court within 24 hours to plead. If he pleads guilty, court will pass sentence.

A delay of 21 days will ensue should it be necessary to take the case to trial.

3 Sue Noah Beery For $154.80 Wages

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 12.—(AP.)—Noah Beery, film actor, was cited to appear in court yesterday for the alleged nonpayment of $154.80 wages to three persons he had employed. He did not appear and the hearing was postponed.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Cantway presented claims for $57.40 each for wages and Henry Zeller claimed Beery owed him $40. Labor commissioners said Berry had informed them he intended to pay the claims, but did not have the funds.

Donnelly Kidnaping Trial February 1

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 12.—(AP.)—The trial of four persons indicted in the kidnaping of Mrs. Nell Donnelly, millionaire garment manufacturer, was set for February 1 by Judge Brown Harris.

The four are Mrs. Ethel Depew, whose husband, Marshall Depew, is sought as one of the chief kidnapers; Lacy Browning, farmer, accused of arranging the hideout for the kidnapers; Paul Scheidt, at whose house Mrs. Donnelly was held, and Charles Mele, accused as one of the guards.

Mary Nolan Sued Over Cost of 'Ads'

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 12.—(AP.)—A suit to collect $160 for advertising in a Los Angeles magazine was filed yesterday against Mary Nolan, film actress, and her husband, Wallace Macrery, the suit constituting the latest legal difficulty to envelope the much-sued pair.

D. S. Phillips, the plaintiff, said the charges are for two advertisements appearing in the October, 1931, issue for the Mary Nolan Gown Shoppe.

Carnegie Man's Will Disposes of $14,000

J. M. Cale, of Carnegie, disposed of a $17,000 estate by his will probated in the Registrar's office. He left his wife, Elsie Cale, one-third of his estate, gave a brother, Aus Cale, $1,000, left $100 each to nephews and nieces, with the remainder, including a patent on a rubber horseshoe, to a nephew, John R. Cale, named executor.

SON'S PLEA MAY REUNITE CAROL AND WIFE

Boy Touches King's Heart, Nation's Credit Factor; Nicholas Accuses Clique

International News Service.

BUCHAREST, Jan. 12.—King Carol and Queen Helen have been drawn together again through mutual love for their son Michael, and their separation will be terminated, according to rumors circulating today among close friends of the royal family.

It was recalled Queen Helen was heartbroken when she returned to the capital in October for a short visit to see her young son. The plea of Michael was said to have melted his father's heart. The boy urged his mother:

"Mummy, don't ever go away again."

Then he turned to Carol and asked him to make her stay with him.

Political reasons, namely the extension of credit to the country which now is withheld because of the royal family's domestic troubles, also were cited as reasons for a reconciliation. Helen was believed to be in Italy.

Magda in Clique Ruling Carol, Prince Charges

LONDON, Jan. 12.—(AP.)—Titan-haired Mme. Magda Lupescu, companion of King Carol during his exile in Paris, reports from private sources today said, was named as one of the principal figures in a protest to Rumanian political leaders by Prince Nicholas, in which the prince charged his royal brother's actions were being controlled by a clique.

At the same time, the reports said, Prince Nicholas announced he has no intention of giving up his bride, the former Mme. Jana Lucia Deletj, in spite of King Carol's reported denunciations of the marriage, and that he intended soon to leave Rumania with her, perhaps forever.

SPURS PARTY CHIEFS

The report said Nicholas told leaders of the peasants, liberal and national peasants' parties they must "act quickly, in accordance with your duty to the country, the king and the dynasty" to break up the clique.

He said he had done his utmost to make King Carol "see reason" and refuse longer to be "a tool of the clique," but it was without avail. Therefore, he said, he was forced to break off relations with his brother and leave with his wife.

Nicholas said he had received his brother cordially on Carol's return from exile and lived in the most complete harmony with him until August, 1930, when, he said, Mme. Lupescu returned to Rumania. Since then, he said, according to the report, a veil has been drawn between him and his brother.

Dancer Acquitted Of Beating Mate

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 12.—(AP.)—Charges that Janina Smolenska, Polish dancer, committed a felony in attacking her husband, Walter Grabowski, were dismissed in Municipal Court yesterday when she produced photographs of bruises to illustrate her story of a beating by Grabowski.

The movie dancer is facing deportation for overstaying her time on her visitor's permit, and is contesting her husband's divorce suit.

MOTHER LINKED IN 6 DEATHS

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Jan. 12.—Police today began digging up the yard of a boardinghouse keeper, suspected, they say, of having poisoned two husbands and two boarders and of burying bodies of two children. She collected $9,000 insurance on the four men, police assert.

Mother of eight children, the widow was arrested yesterday, but later released without bail by Municipal Judge Peter B. Mulolland, pending an investigation.

Coroner M. E. Hays said his records disclosed the four men had died suddenly. One of the husbands dropped dead on his way to work, while the second became ill after drinking tea and died two weeks later in a hospital.

The woman told police, they said, that the stories about her were "spite work" on the part of neighbors.

Mary Astor, Cagney Pay Cited in Suit

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 12.—(AP.)—Salaries puportedly received by James Cagney and Mary Astor, motion picture stars, were named in suits brought against the two yesterday by theatrical agents.

Suing Cagney, the William Norris agency claimed he is now receiving $1,400 per week. Miss Astor was sued by the agency of Collier & Flynn. Her contract, according to the petition, calls for $2,000 weekly.

SCHOOLEY TRIAL WAITS RULING ON KLINE

Change of Venue May Cause Months' Delay; Burgoyne Jokes as He Posts Bond

No date will be set for the trial of deposed City Treasurer Roy D. Schooley, his chief investigator, Arthur G. Burgoyne, who surrendered yesterday and posted bond, and LaSalle Girts, according to Assistant District Attorney George F. P. Langfitt, until after the trial of Mayor Charles H. Kline and Dertram L. Succop, deposed Director of Supplies.

In the event that the Pennsylvania Supreme Court transfers the Mayor's trial to some other county, as sought by his counsel, such action would prevent the possibility of any hearing in the Schooley case for several months.

ANSWER DELAYED

The answer to the petition of Kline and Succop, has been completed by District Attorney Andrew T. Park, but it cannot be filed until Park returns to his office to sign it. Park has been confined to his home with a cold.

Burgoyne was the center of all eyes when he entered the District Attorney's office late yesterday afternoon to post bond after weeks of effort on the part of detectives to subpena him to appear before a grand jury. He appeared the picture of health.

Assistant District Attorney Ralph Hunter approached and shook hands with "Burgie," as his friends call him. Hunter inquired:

"Where have you been? Give an account of yourself."

BURGOYNE JOKES

Burgoyne was smoking a stogie. He smiled broadly and asked Hunter as a joke:

"What newspaper do you represent?"

Burgoyne had previously been asked by a reporter as to where he had been and all he would say was:

"I am under indictment. See my counsel. What would you do if you were I?"

He later left the office after James P. Martorella, of 1216½ Webster avenue, had posted $5,000 bond, giving a dwelling at 1220 Webster avenue worth $12,700 as surety. He said he was offered $20,000 for the property, on which there is a $7,500 mortgage.

STAR EXPLAINS ADOPTION

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Jan. 12.—(AP.)—Constance Bennett, high-salaried movie actress, who recently married a French nobleman, told yesterday the circumstances surrounding her adoption of a 3-year-old boy, filed Saturday in Superior Court here.

The child, said Miss Bennett, is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Louis Armstrong, of London, England, and Mrs. Armstrong was her cousin—her mother's sister's daughter.

The Armstrongs were killed in an automobile accident two years and three months ago in London, the actress related. She said she was abroad at the time and her mother cabled her that the child had been orphaned. Miss Bennett said she immediately took steps to bring the child back to this country, educate him and give him a home.

Miss Bennett's husband, the Marquis Henri de la Coudraye de la Falaise took no part in the adoption proceedings for the boy, whose name now is Peter Dennis Arthur Louis Armstrong Bennett.

U. S. DEBTORS SEEK 5-YEAR MORATORIUM

France, Britain Turn Eyes To America as Germany Repudiates Reparations

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Great Britain and France, acting jointly, are preparing to ask the United States for a five-year suspension of their debt payments to the treasury, according to reports circulated today in usually well informed quarters.

The exact form and substance of the request for debt relief probably will await the conclusion of the Lausanne conference, now set for January 25, at which the whole debts-reparations situation is to be thoroughly discussed. The United States will not be represented at Lausanne, at least not officially.

Germany's repudiation of future reparations payments has served to accelerate the Franco-British move for debt relief. Both have been paying their semi-annual obligations to the Treasury with funds received from Germany. If those funds are now to be no longer forthcoming, France and Britain must either find the money in their own treasuries or obtain further relief from Washington.

This relief can only be obtained with the approval of Congress, which already has warned of its opposition to such a move. The administration itself is powerless to make any extension of the Hoover one-year moratorium, which expires on June 30.

Mussolini Advocates Debt Cancellation

ROME, Jan. 12.—(INS.)—"The Lausanne conference must wipe off the slate its tragic accounting of war debts," Premier Benito Mussolini's personal organ, Popolo d'Italia, stated in a firmly-worded editorial today.

The article was easily recognizable as the work of the Premier himself. It stated:

"Lausanne should finish with the cancellation of debts and credits. It cannot be expected of men to endure without disorder or revolt another winter which might be more cruel than the present one."

Italy will never take the initiative for cancellation of debts, an authoritative spokesman declared, but believes debts and reparations to be intimately connected.

Laval Cabinet Quits After Briand Retires

PARIS, Jan. 12.—(AP.)—The entire French cabinet today followed the example of Aristide Briand and placed their portfolios in the hands of Premier Laval, leaving him free to do as he wishes in reconstructing the ministry.

This action, not altogether unexpected, followed a conversation between the Premier and M. Briand, whose ill-health impelled him to ask last week that he be permitted to retire as Foreign Minister.

This development, coupled with the sudden death of Andre Maginot, Minister of War, precipitated the cabinet crisis.

Bankers Grant Debt Extension to Mexico

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 12.—(AP.)—President Ortiz Rubio revealed in Congress that a moratorium on Mexico's foreign debt had been extended to January 1, 1934, by agreement between the ministry of finance and an international bankers' committee in New York.

He made the announcement in submitting the Lamont-Montes de Oca debt agreement to a special session called to consider its ratification.

Capt. Eaker Makes Wheelless Landing

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—(Universal)—Capt. Ira Eaker, Army pilot of "Question Mark" fame, yesterday made his third airplane landing without wheels.

Circling to land on Bolling Field, he was unable to get the retractable wheels all the way down. He cranked them back up into the ship, dragged the tail skid to lose speed, and settled down on the muddy field. A bent propeller was the only damage.

JOHNSON URGED TO ENTER RACE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—(AP)—The chance to head the united anti-Hoover forces within the Republican party lay with Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, today through a formal invitation to offer himself for the presidential nomination.

From North Dakota, first state to require filing, came the bid. It was presented by her two Republican Senators, Nye and Frazier, and it was received with the same silence Johnson has maintained whenever anything definite on the subject has come up.

DAWES BACKS HOOVER

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—(AP)—America's retiring ambassador to Great Britain, Charles G. Dawes, has served notice on the country in general and the politicians in particular that he is a loyal supporter of President Hoover, thus eliminating himself as a possibility for the Republican presidential nomination. He said:

"Any intimation to the effect that in any possible way or under any possible contingency he (President Hoover) will not have my loyal and entire support is an insult to me."

Butler Keeps Silent On Envoy Job Rumor

BOSTON, Jan. 12.—(INS)—Former United States Senator William M. Butler today refused to comment on reports that he was mentioned as a successor to Charles G. Dawes as Ambassador to Great Britain.

Butler returned last night from Washington, where he attended a banquet and had a conference with President Hoover.

Wheeling Officers Take Salary Cut

tion of Hawaii, an assertion that the Massie case was unprecedented so far as he knew.

Referring to a cablegram he received today from Gov. Lawrence Judd, of Hawaii, Houston said there had been only one other case of attack on a white woman.

The Judd cablegram, to which he referred, denounced reports which had come to the Navy Department. These have said there had been 40 cases. Judd said such reports were malicious and exaggerated.

Honolulu Again Open, Service Men Cautioned

HONOLULU, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Soldiers and sailors, warned against violence, re-entered Honolulu today for the first time since the killing of a native charged with attacking a naval officer's wife precipitated a reign of fear.

Freedom to again visit the city was granted enlisted service men following a conference between Gov. Lawrence M. Judd and Rear Admiral Yates Stirling, at which they decided the crisis of an hysterical situation has passed.

The men all are warned, when given leave or liberty, to "exercise restraint" and "conduct themselves properly."

TOUR DANGER ZONE

The city was quiet in spite of the fears of Army and Navy heads.

The Associated Press correspondent made an automobile tour lasting an hour through that section of the city in which military police declare vice, rowdyism and dance halls are most common.

Although both the Army and Navy granted liberty to all who wished to come to Honolulu, only one soldier and two Navy men in uniforms were seen. This, however, did not include those who may have been in civilian clothes, nor did it include men from the United States naval transport Chaumont which docked in Pearl Harbor, en route to Guam and Manila.

In one dance hall, called the "Liberty," 20 mess boys from the Chaumont—they were so identified by a military policeman accompanying the correspondent—were dancing with Filipino and other brown-skinned girls. It was at this dance hall that the two sailors in uniform were seen not dancing but merely looking at the many girls awaiting partners. (The Honolulu dance halls employ taxi-dancers as hostesses.)

The streets traversed were practically deserted, there being no crowd any place. As the head of the military police said:

"It's sure quiet—but then, it's 11 days after payday!"

PUSH PLANS FOR TRIAL

Steps preliminary to the prosecution of Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, U. S. N., Mrs. Granville Fortescue, society matron and mother of Mrs. Massie, whom the native killed was charged with attacking, and two enlisted Navy men, were completed by city authorities. A grand jury was drawn to meet Friday and the panel of a trial jury will be drawn Thursday.

The grand jury from which their indictment for his slaying will be sought comprises one Hawaiian, three part Hawaiians, one Chinese and 18 Caucasians. The trial jury also probably will be of mixed races.

"Please don't worry," was the message Mrs. Fortescue sent her husband in New York from her temporary prison aboard a warship. Maj. Fortescue, prominent soldier and author, who served with the 80th Division in France, is critically ill with pneumonia.

Montgomery Winn, the attorney, said the message was conveyed through him to Mr. Fortescue. It was the first utterance credited to Mrs. Fortescue to be made public since her arrest.

ASSURES HUSBAND

The message said:

"Please don't worry. Tommie (Lieut. Massie) is looking after us and all will be well.

"Everyone is doing everything they can for us. We have the best lawyers. If only I could come to you! Don't worry. You have all my love.

"GRACE."

A special territorial legislative committee meeting to determine if an extra session of the lawmakers should be called to treat the situation, requested copies of all documents passing between naval officers in the Hawaiian Islands and naval authorities in Washington.

DISCUSS U. S. PROBE

The request was preceded by word the United States Senate had directed the attorney general at Washington to investigate the trouble here and the character and efficiency of all territorial officials, from Gov. Judd down.

Gov. Judd refused to comment on the Senate's action, but other civilian officials denied conditions were as bad as pictured in Navy reports to Washington and said the investigation was unjustified.

The documents requested were made public in Washington yesterday by Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations. One concerned the attack on Mrs. Massie and others contained information upon which naval officers based their assertion 40 women in Honolulu had been attacked in the past year.

Fortescue Gains; Known Here as 80th Leader

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Maj. Granville R. Fortescue, whose wife and son-in-law are held in Honolulu for the murder of a Hawaiian accused of attacking the major's daughter, was reported today to have passed a fairly good night, but was still in a serious condition from pneumonia.

Maj. Fortescue is known to many Pittsburghers through his service as a major in the 314th Field Artillery, 80th Division, A. E. F. He was wounded at Montfaucon.

HAWAII PLEDGE SOUGHT BEFORE GANDHI GOES FREE

Leader Unlikely to Halt Freedom Drive to Win Own Release From Prison

International News Service.

BOMBAY, Jan. 12.—Mahatma Gandhi will not be paroled unless he promises to discontinue his civil disobedience campaign, British government officials announced today.

It was not probable the aged nationalist leader would call a halt to the campaign, which he and his followers are using as their chief weapon in their fight for Indian independence, simply to gain his freedom.

The government statement was issued after rumors Gandhi might be given a parole gained wide circulation. It was said he might be allowed to live in some quiet retreat under the jurisdiction of the Bombay presidency, having virtually complete freedom.

The rumors were given weight by the fact that nationalist leaders who had returned here from Delhi, where they were conferring with the viceroy, Lord Willingdon, immediately left for Poona, where Gandhi is imprisoned.

It was reported the men would confer with their leader over the acceptance of any proposals the government may have made toward arbitration.

16 TOWNS SPUR RATE CUT FIGHT

CHARLEROI, Pa., Jan. 12.—Assured of Gov. Pinchot's support, 16 Monongahela Valley and Southwestern Pennsylvania cities will send representatives to Monongahela tomorrow night to open a fight for lower public utility rates, City Treasurer W. J. Landis, leader in the campaign, announced today.

Municipalities invited to participate include Washington, Canonsburg, Clairton, New Eagle, Monessen, California, Oakmont, Braddock, Belle Vernon, Donora, Elizabeth, West Brownsville, Dormont, Charleroi, Homestead and Duquesne.

Present plans call for a round-table session for drawing up a tentative plan of procedure and to associate the organization with the Fair Rate Association of Oakmont.

Burgess I. Woodward, of Charleroi, said the first broadside of facts and figures to show that war-time rates are being charged in the Monongahela Valley will be fired at electric and gas concerns.

BOOK 'SLEUTH' EXPLAINS JOB

Being a truant officer for lost, strayed or stolen library books is a college education in psychology in itself, according to Jacob Savenga, who has been recovering overdue and missing volumes for the Carnegie Library 23 years.

Zane Grey's books have a habit of getting out and staying out more than any others, he said. Sometimes a book is recovered after being mislaid in bookcase or cupboard for eight or nine years. Information about changed addresses is often withheld by neighbors, who fear bad debt collectors. Children are best sources of information, he said, and the most frequent excuse:

"I forgot."

INSURANCE MEN HEAR BURKE

Insurance could have settled most of our present financial troubles, James F. Burke declared at a meeting of Western Pennsylvania sales workers of the Reliance Life Insurance Company of Pittsburgh, yesterday in William Penn Hotel.

Declaring confidence is more necessary than the dollar and praising the National Credit Corporation organized by bankers to stabilize banking, Burke said:

"Confidence is more necessary than the dollar in the United States today and confidence can be minted by every individual."

A. E. Braun, Reliance president, said confidence in life insurance was an important factor in economic [illegible]

3 HURT BY AUTO IN REVERSE

Three persons were injured one seriously when John B. Walls, 71, of 6052 Stanton avenue, attempted to start his machine in front of 6326 Station street. The machine had been left in reverse gear and when Walls stepped on the starter, it backed over the sidewalk striking two men and a girl.

The injured were C. W. Frye, 57, of 6245 Station street, who is in Pittsburgh Hospital with a possible skull fracture; Sarah Nero, 16, of 504 Sheraden avenue, and James Stellito, of 219 Renfrew street. Miss Nero and Stellito were also taken to the hospital, but were not seriously hurt, police said.

Mario Bolavia, 33, of 821 Drey street, Arnold, suffered lacerations and a possible fractured skull when he was thrown from an automobile which crashed into a lamp post at Eleventh street and Fourth avenue, Arnold, last night, according to a report at Citizens General Hospital. Pete Canale, 52, of Monaca, a companion, suffered a fractured right kneecap.

South Side Market Lease Action Begins

First steps to lease the South Side Market House to space renters at $1,000 per year were taken by City Council today. After Council eliminated an appropriation of $12,000 for operation of the market for 1932, on grounds it was not paying, a number of stall owners requested permission to rent the structure.

The $1,000 will be clear revenue, and the lessees will be required to carry a $25,000 fire insurance policy on the building. The lease further stipulates that maintenance and other expenses must be borne.

THUGS HOLD UP DRUG STORE

Two bandits shortly before midnight held up the drug store of J. C. McNulty, at 1125 North Highland avenue, and escaped with $33 from the cash register.

McNulty told police that he was alone in the store when the men entered. While one threatened him the other went to the cash drawer and took the money, McNulty said.

A window in the store of Eugene Walters, 14 East Lacock street, was shattered by a brick early today. Police, investigating, found nothing missing.

Two Groups Hear Traffic Safety Talks

Traffic safety talks were to be given before two luncheon clubs today by members of the highway safety committee of the Pittsburgh Motor Club as part of a campaign to reduce traffic accidents.

George E. Clarkson was to speak to the East Liberty Chamber of Commerce at McCann's, and Willard H. Buente was to address the Exchange Club in William Penn Hotel. Pittsburgh is striving to win the title "America's Safest City" in the national traffic safety contest.

Officer Will Face Inquest in Killing

The fatal shooting of John F. Hohman, 45, of 815 Linden avenue, East Pittsburgh, by his friend Lieut. David Bennett, of the East Pittsburgh police, in an alleged speakeasy at 830 Dynamo way, December 24, was to be aired at an inquest this afternoon.

Bennett was arrested by county detectives on a manslaughter charge pending outcome of the inquest. He maintained detectives reported that the shooting was accidental.

Three Miners Freed Of Sedition Charge

Nig Bisork, 32, Mike Stone, 38, and Mark Rukavina, 34, miners, of Liberty, W. Va., were freed by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Central Police Court today, where Assistant District Attorney Roy T. Clunk sought to have them held on a charge of sedition. The men were arrested last Wednesday with about 10,000 hand bills which Clunk declared were communistic.

TAX RAISE PLAN OF ROOSEVELT

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 12.—(INS)—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt recommended that taxes on personal incomes, gasoline and stock transfers be doubled, and that license fees for heavy motor trucks be tripled, to wipe out a state deficit of $124,418,000 in his executive budget message to the 1932 Legislature today.

Roosevelt was forced to suggest higher taxes just at a time when he is being mentioned repeatedly for the Democratic presidential nomination. He had to do it to offset the deficit and balance the budget.

The Governor gave his budget in which he called for a new leadership in the nation. He pointed out that while his estimates of state revenues for the current year fell off about 30 per cent, federal revenue is expected to show a decline of nearly 50 per cent.

When Your Cough Hangs On, Mix This at Home

For coughs due to colds, the best remedy that money could buy can easily be mixed at home. It saves money and gives you the most reliable, quick acting medicine you ever used. The way it takes hold of stubborn coughs, giving immediate relief, is astonishing.

Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and fill up with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. It's no trouble at all to mix, and when you once use it, you will never be without it. Keeps perfectly and tastes good—children really like it.

It is surprising how quickly this loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and soothes the inflamed membranes. At the same time, part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes, and helps the system throw off the whole trouble. Even those severe coughs which follow cold epidemics, are promptly ended.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of severe coughs and bronchial irritations.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

BIDS PLANNED ON PARK STANDS

That no money was paid to the county for the concessions for candy, soft drinks, ice cream and other picnic appurtenances in the two county parks was brought out before the County Commissioners' budget session yesterday.

The concession was granted to Robert Roswall, a brother-in-law of Alderman John J. Verona. A Commissioners' resolution passed several years ago provides that the park concessionaries pay 10 per cent of their gross receipts to the county. Two Commissioners voted to advertise for bidders for the concessions this year.

A moratorium for a year on improvements and additions in the county parks was asked in a letter to the County Commissioners read at the session. No appropriations for improvements were included in the requests and the only additional money set up in the budget is for maintenance.

Do You Want to Make a Greater Success of Your Life?

Have 100% Confidence in Yourself?
Have a Money-Making Personality?

G. E. Marchand, prominent New York business man and member of the United States Supreme Court Bar, who has consented to reveal to ambitious men and women the secret which enabled him to rise from failure to wealth in a few years.

Free Demonstration On Stage—Tonight

If you are not satisfied with your progress—if the future seems to hold little promise—if you want to give yourself and loved ones the good things in life—then come tonight and hear G. E. Marchand at Memorial Hall.

Mr. Marchand discovered certain secrets that turned his own life from poverty to earnings of over a million dollars before he was 27. He told his secret to a few friends. Their success was immediate. He told a few more. They, too, increased their incomes. He then decided to give a part of his time to helping earnest men and women win greater success. People thronged to hear him and were lifted from dull, underpaid jobs to high-salaried positions. He became known as "America's Famous Maker of Successful Men and Women."

Come and See for Yourself

Mr. Marchand's program gives you ideas which you can exchange for a larger income, a better position and greater confidence in yourself. You quickly discover how to express yourself to win—how to push yourself forward to success. These are just a few of the secrets Mr. Marchand discloses to you.

With motion pictures, living models, actual demonstrations on the stage, Mr. Marchand will show you how to have a money-making personality and become more successful in business and in life.

Increases Income

Hundreds of men and women write telling of the marvelous results gained through attending Mr. Marchand's programs. "More than doubled my earnings," says Frank H. Copeland. "On January 1st I was promoted to branch manager," says C. H. Rivers. "Our sales more than doubled and our profits increased almost 300%," writes Harry C. Tabler. "Last month I increased my pay check $97.32 over any previous month," writes J. E. Seitz. Letters like these are constantly pouring in.

Tonight—Free

Millions of people have paid to hear this famous man. Tonight you can hear him free. If you are really ambitious—come. Mr. Marchand's program may be worth thousands of dollars to you in the years to come.

Tonight, Wednesday, Thursday, 8 P. M. Admission Free

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

In Mayfair —With— Patricia Pitt

It was a typical first night audience that attended "Smilin' Through" at the Nixon last night. And it was a brilliantly gowned audience, with black velvet still the popular fabric for evening wear. The junior W. L. Mellons were there with Mrs. Mellon in black velvet and a brief bunny jacket, and with them was Marie Louise Bickford also in black velvet having the decolletage banded with white bunny.

Mrs. John W. Lawrence who chose black moire with a taupe caracul coat was with her sister, Mrs. Simon T. Patterson in black velvet having brief sleeves of sequins with a long wrap of black velvet and ermine. Virginia Doyle I caught a glimpse of, and Jane Sloan in black velvet. The R. Kent Hansons too were there with Mrs. Hinson in cream crepe having a two-tone belt of orange and blue. Mrs. John F. Walton appeared in a gown having the skirt of black satin and the bodice coral pink with which she wore a red velvet wrap banded with mink.

Attractive Gretchen Bickford in white linen lace with an apple green velvet jacket and Rita Borntraeger in garnet satin represented the season's debutante set. Mrs. Carl H. Borntraeger was with her daughter wearing kingfisher blue crepe with a mink coat. And I saw the James Samuel O'Neills with Mrs. O'Neill formerly Frances Henry in black crepe with an ermine coat.

I think January is one of the busiest months of the year for everyone and especially is it the time for the various organizations and clubs to get together and plan activities for the ensuing months.

Social Set Busy

There are always dozens of small functions every day and one of the most popular places to gather is the indoor tennis court at the Pittsburgh Golf Club which has a rather dangerous rival now in the bowling alley at the new Fox Chapel Club.

Mrs. John Crossan Hays, chairman of the women's tennis committee at the Pittsburgh Golf Club, announces a small tournament on the court tomorrow afternoon to be preceded by a buffet luncheon for the players.

Today there is a meeting of the Junior League members in their rooms in the Clark Building, to discuss, among others things, plans for coming exhibits.

Pittsburgh Folks Sojourn at Resorts

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Clepper, of Pittsburgh, are at Coral Gables, Fla. Judge W. H. S. Thomson and his daughter, Miss Marguerite Thomson, of Pittsburgh, are in Atlantic City, at the Hotel Chelsea, for some time. Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Russell and Mrs. Rilla Brown also of Pittsburgh are spending the winter in St. Petersburg, Fla. at the Suwannee Hotel. Mrs. John R. Beck and her daughter, Miss Rhea Beck, of the Schenley Apartments, sailed on Saturday from New York on the cruising yacht Stella Polaris for a three-month cruise of the South Sea Islands, the Dutch East Indies, French Indo-China, Ceylon and the Mediterranean.

* * *

The Italian Women's Committee of the Cathedral of Learning will hold a card party in the Venezia Garden on January 27, to obtain funds for the Italian room of the Cathedral. Mrs. R. Molinari is general chairman and Miss Rose Leone is chairman of cards.

Englishman Suggests Britain Pay Debt by Building Ships For American Navy

If America would allow Great Britain to build her (America's) Navy, $15,000,000 worth of goods would be delivered in payment of England's debt, American taxpayers would be relieved from greater taxation and unemployed would find employment in both Britain and America. This was the very original idea put forth by Sir Norman Angell, member of the English Parliament, at the close of his lecture before the Twentieth Century Club yesterday morning.

Western civilization has nearly smashed itself in the last 25 years and this is on account of the failure of millions to apply knowledge, which is of universal possession, the speaker declared. Education, he said, has not kept pace with social changes, has not equipped people to accept the self-evident nor to understand the social mechanics of the world they live in. The main defect is that the problem is approached in the belief that "the voice of the people is the voice of God," whereas it is more often the voice of Satan.

The absurdity of the present situation is that it is partly the result of over-production, Sir Norman remarked. No country, he said, can use victory to restore its economic processes, nor its navies to restore trade. Without international laws everybody on the motor road of the nations will drive as he sees fit. A secure world, a world of freedom and happiness, does not lie in inanimate material, nor in nature, but in the minds and heads of men and it must be sanctified and fortified with human thought and human intelligence, he stated as he completed his talk.

CLUB NOTES

A fine example of co-operation was given yesterday when the Woman's Historical Society gave its speaker, Miss Edith Bane, to the Congress of Clubs and joined the latter's quarterly meeting in a body at the close of its own business session. Miss Bane gave an extremely interesting talk on her trip around the world which she illustrated with pictures so beautifully taken and so exquisitely colored that some of them drew applause in the midst of the lecture.

More than 150 delegates registered at the morning session which was addressed by the Rev. Dr. Albert E. Day. Dr. Day discussed the causes and psychological results of unemployment. He approved a bond issue as a solution to the economic situation and also suggested restraint on invention, wise economic planning and more equal distribution of wealth.

Mrs. Frank Orr Johnson gave her views on India, showing what good things Great Britain has done for that country. Elsie Breese Mitchell sang a group of songs, accompanied by Marian Dewi McDade.

* * *

Music by Emma Sturki Hansen, Mrs. Henry Schoenfeldt, Mrs. Gertrude Robinson Dodds, Mrs. Ben Graham and Miss Marjorie Bell Pifer made up part of the program yesterday for the Literary and Musical Club. Papers which contrasted new educational methods and those of yesterday were given by Mrs. Charles C. Dornbush, Mrs. Graham and Mrs. Mary J. Cowley.

George William Smith of Carnegie Tech drama school, substituted for Chester Marvin Wallace, also of the drama school, at yesterday's meeting of the Homewood Women's Club. Mr. Smith read Barrie's play, "The Will," and Miss Evelyn Pfeifer accompanied by Miss Virginia Kamaras, furnished the music. The club's committee for the blind will hold an all-day sewing tomorrow in the club rooms, Homewood Carnegie Library, where the altruistic committee is sewing today for families under the care of the Public Health Nursing Association.

Come the New Cars of 1932

Three and a half pounds. Over 500 pictures. 350 pages.

For months the car companies have been working day and night to produce the greatest series of automobiles that have ever delighted a critical public. NEW standards of Value—of Comfort—of Ease—of Beauty—of Safety—of Performance—of Stamina—have been achieved. Surprising NEW engineering developments outmode the car of yesterday. Never—never before have there been such remarkable values for the critical dollar of today.

The jealously guarded secrets are out!

These amazing NEW achievements are SIMULTANEOUSLY REVEALED FOR THE FIRST TIME in the great SHOW ISSUE of MoToR.

Take the National Auto Show home with you!

From the great manufacturing plants have come direct to MoToR, the secret, complete specifications on all the NEW cars. Over 500 pictures and drawings, and hundreds of fascinating pages vividly reveal the surprising changes and improvements. It even forecasts what the probable "tear-drop" car of the future will look like and do.

Speed; power; design; acceleration; vibration elimination; freewheeling; brakes; body; upholstery; accessories . . . every detail that will enable you to weigh the comparative merit, beauty and performance of these hitherto unheard-of values, is graphically presented in this one book.

Here's vitally important news for every car owner. Here's exactly why and how your dollar will buy more smart automobile today than ever before. And here's the most comprehensive, unbiased guide for comparing these astounding values that ever will be offered to you.

It's truly more valuable than a trip to the Motor Show. For it's ready for reference at any time . . . inside information for consideration in the undisturbed quiet of your own home.

When children won't eat—
and won't gain weight—

Try This!

The youngster who has no appetite, probably has stasis. A little fig syrup will soon correct this condition — then watch the child eat—and gain!

Mothers should never coax a child to eat. Nature knows best. Remove the cause of a youngster's poor appetite—get rid of stasis. Children who don't eat are sluggish. Read what the "California treatment" is doing for sluggish, listless children in every part of the country!

A Pound a Week

Your child will eat well from the day and hour you conquer sluggishness. But that girl or boy with furry tongue and a bad breath should not be dosed with salts!

Begin tonight, with enough pure fig syrup to cleanse the colon thoroughly. Less tomorrow, then every other day, or twice a week, until the appetite, digestion, weight, complexion, tell you the stasis is gone. When a cold or other ailment has again clogged the system, fig syrup will soon set things to right.

When appetite fails, tongue is coated white, eyes are a bilious yellow, California fig syrup will gently stimulate the colon muscles — and the child you used to coax to eat will fairly devour his food.

Just One If — *The claims made for California Fig Syrup are true and it will do the same for you—*IF you get genuine CALIFORNIA fig syrup. Don't accept any of the substitutes.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

Why don't you join our Christmas Club, too?

Daddy's Christmas Club check made this a real Christmas for the kiddies

Members of the Christmas Club declare that the weekly payments are so small they don't mind them at all. And at Christmas time, when there comes a fat Christmas Club check—enough to buy presents for everyone—they are surprised that they actually have so much.

Isn't it a wonderful plan?

If you didn't receive a check this year, join our Christmas Club now, and be among the lucky ones next holiday time.

THE STAGE :-: New Musical Play Seen by Critic :-: PICTURES :-: Gossip About Events In Hollywood

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"Mourning Becomes Electra," according to that pre-eminent stylist, Eugene O'Neill, whose latest work, a dramatic trilogy that has no frills, will have customers at the Nixon box office looking for seats when Thursday rolls around. The Theater Guild sends this 14-acter, the cleverest of which are subtitled "The Homecoming," "The Hunted" and "The Haunted," Judith Anderson and Florence Reed head the cast which includes our old friend, Thurston Hall. Like O'Neill's other long play, "M. B. E." is one that stops midway of its course to let the fodder up.

Small Timer says woman may have tempted man to eat the apple but drinking the juice was his own idea.

Ulalia Hollis, Alice Lois Sam, Bi, at a cafe in a 1900 era, Charles Gilpin, Sammy Lee, Dan Dolan, Ida Lee, Ted Pearson, Rollo Lloyd, Ivy Troy and Lew Payton are in the cast of "Singin' the Blues," the Negro musical that will be the Nixon attraction next week. Jack Osterman and Estelle Taylor are to be starred in "Dancing Sweeties," due at the Pitt next week.

Small Timer says he knows a Scotsman wouldn't accept a pass to a show because he would have to pay attention.

In support of Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey in the musical, "Hold 'Em Yale," which will be the Grand's attraction next week, are Dorothy Lee, Eddie Quillan, Mitzi Green, Kitty Kelly, Arline Judge, Stanley Fields and Ivan Lebedeff. The Green kidlet already has added an impersonation of Woolsey to her gallery of portraits.

Small Timer says calling a spade a spade really is creditable, as he could think of many other terms if he had to use one.

Pauline Lord's reappearance on the New York stage after quite an absence has been put off until next Monday. She was to have opened last night in "Distant Drums," by Dan Totheroh, but another week is being given to rehearsal.

Small Timer says a petter is just wasting his time.

Fine Cast in Nixon Comes 'Smiling Through' By Small Margin

By GEORGE SEIBEL

It was a great night for Ada May and her red balloon, and she came smiling through. It was also a great night for Charles Winninger and his slide trombone, and he too came smiling through. As for the other ingredients of the musical play which was revealed at the Nixon Theater last night, it is not so sure that it will duplicate the triumph of the stage play when Jane Cowl played "Smiling Through." The play depended upon the sentimental aftermath of war—upon the joyous hope that burst the shell of grief and fluttered singing through the shadows of the grave. When you lard it with laughs and dibble it with dances, the mood is lost. And so last night "Smiling Through," while it pleased most people, touched few of them, and while the poetry lingered, the drama was lost.

George Seibel

That is a pity, for Vincent Youmans has built a respectable score—coming nearest to inspiration in the third act with the chorus "Drums in My Heart." There is much pretty melody and some rattling rhythm, dovetailed with musicianly technique. It ranges from Balfe at his best to Victor Herbert when he is not so good. The lyrics of Edward Heyman also waver between merit and mediocrity. But the unhappy part of the production is the adaptation made by Brian Hooker, who is a poet, yet has failed to save the poetry.

LAPSES INTO BANALITY

To him must be ascribed some of the lapses into banality which grate upon the ears. Dialogue like "Naughty, naughty" and "Yes, I wilst," is neither funny nor sensible. When the fair lady says she has "lost her charm" and the gallant gentleman tells her "Not if you live a hundred years," hard cider tastes like champagne.

The climax of absurdity is reached when a mad bull pursues the junior heroine and is heard bellowing off stage. If Charles Winninger, who doubles in brass, had played the Toreador Song on his trombone at this cue and driven off the infuriated beast, it might have made a heroic climax.

Here you get the weakness of this text. It doesn't dare to be very funny, and it can't rise to the dramatic. When the characters have to exchange dialogue to advance the action of the play, it sounds like old-fashioned melodrama; at other times they have to attend too many parties, to give the chorus a reason for singing and dancing.

BETWEEN TWO STOOLS

Youmans and Hooker did not know whether to make a grand opera or a musical comedy, so they have fallen between two stools. The fall is a graceful one, for the music, as interpreted by Hugo Riesenfeld, is musicianly and the production is scenically and sartorially lavish.

And the cast is as full of stars as the belt of Orion.

Tom Powers is a fine actor and Charles Winninger is a rare comedian. Norma Terris has a most attractive personality and a voice of rich sweetness and range. Nick Long, Jr., could almost play leap-frog with telegraph poles. Ada May is a delicious comique who can assume queer angles and cut grimaces adorably. Michael Bartlett has a dramatic voice and a manner of sincerity. Marion Ballou, once a Pittsburgher, does her bit well. The chorus, still somewhat straggly, dances and sings competently enough to warrant approval on credit.

But the thing has lost its soul. It was sentimental melodrama based upon spiritism. Now it fails to convince and it does not stir the heart, though the music pleases and the players do their valiant best.

Well, there is compensation in the red balloon of Ada May and the Wagnerian trombone of Charles Winninger.

More Rhine Romance In Films

By MILDRED FILLMORE

Once again the romance of the Rhine flows through a German picture in the Avenue Cinema, with Kaethe Dorsch keeping an inn where students of Bonn carouse and sing. "Die Lindenwirtin vom Rhein" ("The Hostess of the Linden Tree") tells how the new professor comes to eat a meal, and finds he has no money. Taking him for a student racketeer, she makes him work to pay his check by grinding coffee and peeling potatoes. This is the beginning of a romance in which everybody is finally happy after much Rhine wine is drunk and many catchy songs are sung—especially the song of the "Hostess of the Linden Tree Inn."

The short pictures this week are most remarkable—especially the one showing bird life from gulls to penguins. A trip through the Mosel valley and an acrobatic equestrian comedy are also worth while.

A Columnist's Sec'y Jots Down a Few Notes

Dear W. W.: Jeff Machamer, now doubling on Chas. Dana Gibson's weekly, and Jack Shuttleworth will be in; they want to clown a profile on you . . . Beatrice Blinn phoned . . . Said she is legally separated from Crane Wilbur, that she wasn't his 5th frau, but his 6th! . . . That Wilbur and Lenita Lane probably want to marry, but BB won't give him a divorce and so on . . . I told her that their severest friends and best critics were saying that Crane and Lenita were secretly sealed, not you . . . Too many of your better-wishers phoned to remind you not to be a loafer, no matter what happens in the night places—that you have too much at stake and nothing is that important.

Harold Seton says that you indicate femme's stems thuswise ! ! and the Thomaston, Ga. Times says it sees lots that look like ( ), but Seton insists that is not as bad as seeing those that look like ((. . . If you want to see what drug stores looked like 20 years ago—before they were given over to everything but drugs—look at the chemist shop at the NE corner of 3d Ave. and 18th St. . . . The Santly Brothers' latest is called "Starlight" . . . One clown wants to know why you are not called a Horridscoper? . . . Since you've been going in for public improvements, Dana L. Cotie wonders why you don't ask the authorities to fix up Broadway between 65th and 70th Sts. . . . The worst looking sector along the whole Artery.

Jane Franklin wants to know if you ever used "gigoloafer"—Jane being another of your inconstant constant readers . . . The Columbia Spectator phoned . . . wanted to know the name of the professor being considered for appointment to the Transit Board . . . Vallee will sing that song Thursday night. It seems the writers of it had arranged a wrong orchestration for last week . . . Norman Anthony called. Said you are the worst guy he ever saw. Just because some guy writes you and says his mag swiped an idea you have to go and tell everybody—and that if you don't like this country, then why don't you go back where you came from? . . . Had me in sections.

Some Syracuse clown called to offer New York is divided this way—Sassiety on the West Side—Society on the East—and sousiety in between . . . Sam Redbeard, of Astoria, offers "Prohooverbition" . . . Not bad . . . Hoffman called and said that he hears that since Wrigley became associated with Paramount they are thinking of changing "Chico" Marx's name to "Chicle" Marx . . . Here's a joke: "What's the difference between the Pulitzers and Scripps-Howard?" . . . The answer, which is supposed to leave newspapermen limp, is: "All the difference in The World!" . . . The war against that type of magazine is something to make Ballyhoo sick about . . . It has to suffer for the drivel of its poor imitators—and now the censors in the South (in sweeping the mimics off the stands by law) decided to include Anthony's mag. That's a shame . . . I appreciate your point all the more now . . . I know you are happy over the statement given out by the Will Hays' office on the charges against your carbon copies on the coast . . . Get in touch with Charlie Freeman or Arthur Willi at the RKO offices.

I was looking over the old Vaudeville News files for Machamer today and found so many squibs you could use all over again . . . How you played up Joe Frisco in those days! . . . Those gags are good again—use them! . . . Why not run some of that "torch" verse—you big sentimentalist! . . . Found the column where you first used the title "Your Broadway and Mine"—over a poem—March 24, 1922 . . . "It rehearsed me how to brood—it prepared me to be shrewd" . . . "Broadway fooled me, Broadway ruled me, Broadway schooled me how to cry—though it bumped me, thumped and trumped me—Broadway's where I want to die!" . . . I liked, too, the parody on Arthur Chapman's "Out Where the West Begins" . . . "But I hope and pray when I go to my Maker—my cortege goes slowly somewhere near Longacre—and not where the West commences!" . . . Gee, 1922—a decade ago . . . When you didn't write such cracks as "Get the gravy while you can and the heck with the fellow who comes in second!" . . . or "Get it while you're hot—you stay cold a long time!" . . . somehow, those files reveal something more human, mister—honest.—R. C.

The "Silver Seal"

on Meadow Gold Milk costs you no more

HEALTH officials, doctors, women . . . all who have examined the "Silver Seal" on Meadow Gold Milk are enthusiastic about it. They agree that here is the greatest improvement in dairy sanitation since the bottle replaced the old bulk method. This aluminum cap completely covers the pouring surface of the bottle. It seals the contents air-tight—safe from melting ice or other foreign matter.

This dairy only

This more modern way of bottling milk is used exclusively for rich, wholesome, pasteurized Meadow Gold Milk. It represents this dairy's extra effort to give you not only the best in milk but the best in delivery of that milk, too.

Phone your order

There's no extra charge for Meadow Gold Milk in the bottle with the "Silver Seal." Why not enjoy it? When you purchase milk that is not bottled in this up-to-date, sanitary container you're missing something! Telephone for a trial order.

An easy twist of the wrist removes the "Silver Seal." It serves as a convenient cover afterwards. Note (at left) that there's no hard cardboard disposal on top of the Meadow Gold bottle. The inner surface is perfectly smooth.

3 times more for your money and greater protection against colds

PEPSODENT ANTISEPTIC goes 3 times as far because it's 3 times as powerful as any other leading mouth wash. That's economy for you! Why waste money on ordinary antiseptics that must be used full strength?

UNLIKE ordinary mouth washes, Pepsodent Antiseptic really kills germs—even when diluted with 2 parts of water. That is why it is a safe and swift weapon against sore throat colds—and Bad Breath (Halitosis). It is the most economical mouth antiseptic you can use. Pepsodent Antiseptic is at least three times as powerful as other leading mouth antiseptics. Hence, it goes three times as far—gives you three times as much for your money—gives you greater protection against sore throat colds, bad breath. You can fool yourself with weak antiseptics, but you can't fool the germs. Remember there are just two kinds of mouth antiseptics—those that must be used full strength—and Pepsodent Antiseptic that is highly germicidal when diluted. When choosing your antiseptic be sure you choose the one that kills germs even when you add water. Insist on Pepsodent Antiseptic—and be safe! Be safe—and save money!

BAD BREATH (Halitosis)

The amazing results of Pepsodent Antiseptic in fighting sore throat colds, proves its effectiveness in checking Bad Breath (Halitosis). Remember, Pepsodent Antiseptic is 3 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics. Remember, it kills germs even when diluted with water!

Some of the 50 different uses for this modern antiseptic

English Star Successor To Chaney

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1932, King Features Synd., Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 12.

An Englishman, who spent 10 unrecognized years on Hollywood's outer fringe, is now reaching for the mantle of Lon Chaney.

Meet Boris Karloff, born Pratt, younger son in a British family of eight boys and one girl, and one-time land-clearer at Vancouver, B. C.

Lupe Velez

Karloff (it is a family name on his mother's side) is the actor who played the monster in "Frankenstein." Each day, during the filming of this picture, he spent three and one-half hours putting on his gruesome make-up and then, on order of his superiors, wore a veil over his head as he walked from his dressing room to the set.

Now he has a long-term contract at Universal, and is spoken of as the successor to Lon Chaney.

Yet he modestly curbs his elation and sticks to his old small car and home.

"I have been lucky and have received splendid handling," he told me. "My main concern now is to do good work in my future parts. I believe Universal plans to give me a variety of roles, but they will not, perhaps, experiment at once. I understand, however, I am not to be continuously distorted by make-up, as in 'Frankenstein'."

Karloff comes of a conservative English family, that went in for government service. One of his brothers was on the Viceroy's Council in India and another in the High Court at Bombay.

The actor has been married for three years and his wife is a graduate of the University of California.

MORE GOSSIP

Randolph Scott is panicky about the way the rumor-hounds are rushing him into an engagement with Lupe Velez. When their marriage was first predicted, he had been out with Lupe but twice. Local columnists are wearing broad smiles. Eddie Cantor will be back here in two and a half weeks. He's coming by boat, and doubtless is playing benefits at all ports of call . . . Anna May Wong is the latest to sign for vaudeville . . . Rita Borzage, wife of Frank, is a member of the women's volley-ball team of the Hollywood Athletic Club . . . Harold Lloyd moves his company to the United Artists Studio on the 15th . . . and King Vidor tells me he'll take the "Bird of Paradise" troupe to Hawaii, rains or no rains.

Anna May Wong

Girls in Blue in Academy

"Girls in Blue," Columbia burlesque now is in the Academy. Heading the laugh section are Billy Fields, tramp comic, and Chuch Callahan. Featured among the women is Tiny Huff, blonde ingenue, who also teams with Jack Ryan in a melange of jest and dance. Other performers include the Bowers Sisters, harmony singing and dancing specialists, Jean Gaskell, brown-tressed ingenue, Larry Clark, character man; Jack Ryan, juvenile, and Lew Petel, straight man. A chorus of 18 sings and dances. Mildred Clark has been retained as an extra feature.

'Switzerland,' Subject Of Holmes Talk

"Beauty Trails in Switzerland" is the subject of Burton Holmes' pictured discourse to be given in Carnegie Music Hall tonight. Among the high-spots will be the Engadine, called "the noblest valley in Switzerland," with its chain of lakes and the raging Inn below, and the Canton of the Grisons, with St. Moritz and its winter sports.

WE NOW PRESENT

By Darrell V. Martin
Radio Editor

GENE AUSTIN dropped into town inauspiciously last night and helped Don Bestor and others celebrate the signing of a WTAM contract by Kay Kronick, the gay blues singer of WCAE and KDKA . . . Kay leaves for Cleveland next Monday to appear on commercials at WTAM and at the same time is to receive a chance at network programs . . . As a surprise reward Don Bestor has engaged Kay to sing on his NBC-KDKA network program Friday afternoon at 1:30 . . . Austin's sudden appearance in Pirate Hall surprised everyone . . . He stopped in Pittsburgh on his way South where his orchestra has several engagements . . . He obliged Pittsburgh's radio audience by singing "My Blue Heaven" on the late KDKA broadcast . . . Afterward he joined Don Bestor, Dick Powell, Joe Penner, Sally Starr, Vera Marsh, Hal Cohen, Riggs and Moke and a host of other stage and radio celebrities in a gala testimonial party for Kay Kronick in the apartment of Frank Andrews, manager of the William Penn Hotel.

Question a Day:

How may I enter the talent search being conducted by Paul Whiteman? Hazel C., Indiana, Pa.

Answer—Whiteman is to visit 25 cities. When he comes to Pittsburgh he will hear any promising talent that has never been on the air. One artist will be selected to appear with him on a network broadcast from this city. More details later.

Today's Tid Bit:

A large amplifier panel was being hoisted into Marjory Stewart's Microphone Playhouse through the skylight the other night when a flock of detectives appeared on the scene and threatened to arrest the laborers. It appears that the panel in being hoisted, crashed against an automatic burglar alarm signal of a music store next door. One of the detectives, spying a laborer with a microphone under his arm, mistook it for a bomb and was leading the suspect to jail when Miss Stewart intervened and explained the situation.

GOOD NEWS FOR THOSE WHO LIKE COFFEE

"I like a good cup of coffee with every meal but I used to suffer when I drank it," says Edward J. Owens, well-known salesman of 86 Falmouth Street, Boston, Mass.

"I would have sick headaches, would belch, leaving a sour taste in my mouth, gas on my stomach, and terrible indigestion.

"I tried many things before my druggist persuaded me to take some Pape's Diapepsin.

"I have a better appetite. Now I can drink coffee even late at night, eat lobsters, pork or anything I want and sleep like a baby."

Get a package of these candy-like tablets from your druggist. They stop heartburn, gas on stomach, belching, nausea, headaches or any other symptom of indigestion soon as the trouble starts.

LEAGUE SCORED BY STUDENT

Little hope that the League of Nations can effect an equitable settlement of the Manchurian situation was held out by Samuel Kwok Yuin Fung, drama student at Duquesne University, in an address before the McKeesport League of Women Voters last night in the Penn-McKee Hotel.

Reviewing the history of Manchuria's relations with Japan for the 50 years since Japan became a military power, Fung concluded:

"If the League of Nations is unable to do anything for this first test of its peace machinery, can its members sit calmly in the disarmament conference next February, or will its members prefer their own military power to the league's peace power?"

Manager for Dow Stores Here Named

At a dinner last night in Webster Hall, D. C. Keller, president of the Dow Drug Company, here from Cincinnati, announced the appointment of C. K. Smith, former manager of the Springfield district, as general manager in Pittsburgh, filling a vacancy caused by the death of F. W. M. McCullough.

An executive staff for Pittsburgh was also announced as follows: Andrew Magee, warehouse manager; Ralph Hunter, display manager; William Burgess, advertising manager; T. B. Wilson, office manager; J. P. Griggs, supervisor of prescription department; Charles Berkley, supervisor of food and fountains, and W. E. Kefover, superintendent of candy and cigars and personnel manager.

Gray Hair

Best Remedy is Made At Home

To half pint of water add one ounce bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and one-fourth ounce of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It imparts color to streaked, faded or gray hair and makes it soft and glossy. Barbo will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

POOR BOARD WAITS BANK RULE ON LOAN PLEA

POLITICS

Senator David A. Reed Not to Succeed Dawes

By MARK SHIELDS

Senator David A. Reed will not become ambassador to Great Britain as successor to Gen. Dawes, whose resignation soon will become effective.

It is improbable Henry P. Fletcher, of Greencastle, diplomat and recently resigned as chairman of the Tariff Commission, will be sent to London.

Mark Shields

The Hoover circle has little fear that Dawes will be a serious threat to renomination of the president.

These conclusions are based on information from Washington, which appears reliable, and which has an interest to those concerned with Pennsylvania politics.

Time was when Reed would have been considered seriously for a diplomatic assignment. But that was when John S. Fisher was governor of Pennsylvania and when the Pennsylvania Senator was in better grace with the President than he is today.

* * *

Pinchot Would Name Successor to Reed

Now, should Reed be named ambassador, Gifford Pinchot would have the naming of his successor, and it is a certainty that the appointee would be of the Pinchot type, thus distasteful to the President and annoying to the Republican National Committee. Should Mr. Pinchot desire—as he probably would—he could delay naming a successor until too late for this year's election, in which event the Pinchot representative would serve for nearly two years. That is not an enjoyable prospect for Republicans of the Hoover-Brown-Fess type.

Mr. Fletcher is reported to have alternate desires, an ambassadorship or a senatorial campaign in Pennsylvania. In Washington Republican leaders are understood to feel that sufficient has been done for the Greencastle man by the national party, and that no phase of political expediency would be served by extending him another courtesy.

* * *

Fletcher Against Davis For Senate Not Likely

It is also doubtful if Fletcher will be a senatorial candidate against James J. Davis. If the Philadelphia Republican organization eventually decides to oppose Davis—which is far from certainty today—it will do so with someone capable of making more headway than Fletcher would against the junior Senator. In pre-campaign discussions in past years Fletcher has heard his name mentioned for the governorship, but practical strategists in the party and its factional divisions have ruled him out as insufficiently known.

Not so long ago James Francis Burke might have had an ambassadorship, possibly Great Britain, but he is understood to desire no employment out of the United States now, even though the President was minded to make use of his ability.

However, there is another Pennsylvanian recently in the news who might be ambassadorial timber. He is Jay Cooke, Philadelphia banker, recently elected as Republican national committeeman from Pennsylvania. Unfortunately from the standpoint of availability, Mr. Cooke is to be one of the chief campaign collectors in difficult times when his capacity in that line is sorely needed.

* * *

No Response From Bucks for Cooke

Incidentally, when Cooke was elected national committeeman through a poll of the state committee by Gen. Edward Martin, there was no response from Bucks County, where former Senator Joseph R. Grundy is potent. Nor did some other committeemen under Grundy influence give their approval to Cooke. Mr. Grundy and the present regime in the state committee do not hitch, the former Senator having abortively aided Mr. Pinchot in an effort to unhorse Martin.

Dawes, had he resigned three months ago, would have been pressed to run with Hoover, despite the opposition he gave the President in the last national convention, when he was for former Gov. Lowden, of Illinois. Vice President Curtis, who couldn't decide for so long whether to run for re-election, or to resume his Kansas Senate seat, would have had his mind made up for him by the Hoover group, which considers him no asset in the coming fight. Curtis would have been on the outside.

But, after a visit to Kansas, a dismal survey, he announced he was again a candidate for the vice presidential nomination, and the President could not repudiate him without results more harmful than having him as a companion in the coming hazardous adventure of the national campaign.

Mark Shields will talk on "Politics" over Station WCAE Thursday evening at 6:30.

NOTABLES WILL TALK AT HUGE JOB RALLY

Father Cox's Washington Marchers Get Certificates At Stadium on Saturday

Brass bands, a quartet and speakers nationally prominent will add luster to an unemployment protest mass meeting at 2 p. m. Saturday, sponsored by the Rev. James R. Cox for women and unemployed men who could not march in last week's parade, it was announced today. The meeting will be held in Pitt Stadium.

Arrangements are being made to give certificates to members of the unemployment army who marched or rode to Washington last week to ask a $5,000,000,000 public works program from Congress. Members of the army, divided into groups of 50, with a captain heading each division, will be identified by the captains.

MUSIC PROVIDED

The North Braddock Volunteer Firemen's band and Father Cox's Blue and Gold Band will play, while the Four Horsemen quartet will sing. Special sections will be provided for members of the army, Henry Ellenbogen, chairman of the meeting, said.

City and county officials and representatives of educational institutions, labor unions and the professions have accepted service on the general committee. It is expected the committee will be filled tonight.

A number of women have already signified their intention of assisting in the arrangements for the mass meeting, and Ellenbogen expects at least 50,000 will attend.

FAREWELL TRIBUTE

The meeting will also be in a form of a farewell to the jobless thousands who made the march to present unemployment conditions.

Assisting Chairman Ellenbogen to make arrangements so far have been Earl C. Deane, George L. Ewing, John J. O'Donnell, George Bridgeman, Dr. Earl J. Cox, Joseph Walsh, Michael Lennertz and Andrew Krupnick.

Members of the quartet to sing are Edward J. Heilman, Wilfred King, Edward Barry and Regis Reagan.

COKE COMPANY RAZES GREAT SMOKESTACK

Thousands See 175-Foot Chimney, Undermined By Fire, Crash to Ground

PERRYOPOLIS, Pa., Jan. 12. — Thousands of persons yesterday witnessed the razing of one of the largest smoke stacks in Western Pennsylvania at the Washington Run mine of the H. C. Frick Coke Company, Star Junction, near here.

The stack, erected 12 years ago at a cost of $30,000 by the Washington Coal and Coke Company, had not been in use for two years, since the present company took over operation of the mines. The huge stack, used for more than 100 waste heat coke ovens, was built of tile brick and stood 175 feet high.

CRACKS WERE MENACE

Its circumference was 47 feet, with two feet thickness at the base. The Frick Company never used the stack, because it electrified the plant. Steam was formerly used. The stack started to crack at the top last week, menacing safety of employes.

Under the direction of Clarence P. Smith, superintendent, the bricks were chipped half way around the stack at the base yesterday and replaced with cribbing blocks. Gasoline was used to fire the braces. Seventeen minutes after the torch set fire to the bracing, the stack crashed to the ground.

OFFICIALS SEE FALL

Officials of the company who witnessed the novel feat were W. C. Hood, assistant general superintendent; B. J. Murphy, assistant safety director; Fred Rhodes, assistant construction engineer; Charles Brown and Roy F. Albright, master mechanics. Witnesses were kept back more than 600 feet from the stack by Capt. W. S. Ernest and his force of company police.

Smith said that, due to the cracking at the peak, it was decided to raze the structure for the safety of the employes and property.

FIRST REQUEST FOR $600,000 REFUSED

16,400 Destitute Families Lose County Aid; Mayor Lysle Demands Action

Poor Directors of Allegheny County have been turned down by at least one bank in their attempt to borrow money to aid 16,400 needy families, but were to seek the support of County Commissioners today in an effort to raise funds.

In the meantime payments of relief money to the poor have stopped because the coffers of the Poor Board are empty. In the emergency, a large bank has been asked for a loan of $600,000, Dr. W. L. Henderson, one of the poor directors, said. The bank is to give its decision today.

LOAN REFUSED

That the Poor Board had been refused a loan by one bank was disclosed by Mayor George H. Lysle, of McKeesport, who with officials of Clairton, Duquesne, Glassport and Dravosburg yesterday conferred with Dr. Henderson and urged that a loan be sought.

Mayor Lysle said:

"The lack of funds for poor relief is a very serious thing for communities outside of Pittsburgh. People cannot be allowed to freeze and starve and the Poor District of Allegheny County must find some way to provide for them."

SUPPORT OFFERED

The Poor Board has been assured of the support of at least one County Commissioner in the attempt to raise money to meet the emergency, Dr. Henderson said. The entire board, including Maj. J. Clyde Miller, H. H. Dixon and Dr. Henderson, plans to go before County Commissioners today and ask for approval for a loan of $600,000, either in the form of a bond issue or a loan in anticipation of taxes due in June.

Poor relief, outside of charitable institutions, has almost quadrupled in the last year. The maximum relief for each family is $15 per month, coal and shoes for school children.

FOSTER RITES TOMORROW

The anniversary of the death of Stephen Collins Foster, Pittsburgh composer who died 68 years ago, will be observed tomorrow. A recently organized movement in Pittsburgh to perpetuate Foster's memory has resulted in the Stephen C. Foster Scholarship Foundation for Music and Art to aid ambitious boys and girls in Pennsylvania.

Members plan to establish similar foundations in other cities, they say. According to Matilda Orr Hays, Pennsylvania's first award will be made to Dallas Clayland Rose, great-grandson of the composer, whose drawings and pictures were shown in the national high school art exhibit, she said.

Meeting to Protest Trolley Service Cut

A protest on the curtailment of street car service in Pittsburgh, especially the Shadeland avenue shuttle service, will be made at a mass meeting in the Horace Mann School, Shadeland avenue, tonight, under auspices of the Twenty-seventh Ward Board of Trade. Speakers will be officers of the Allied Boards of Trade and a representative of the Public Service Commission.

Commercial Visas To Mexico Dropped

Visas on commercial invoices on shipments to Mexico are no longer required, it was announced today by the local Mexican consul. Heretofore it had been necessary to have all commercial invoices passed upon by the Mexican consul in the district in which the shipments originated. With the abolishing of the visa, shipments have been speeded.

20 Westinghouse Veterans Honored

J. M. Hipple, general works manager of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, acting as president of the Veteran Employes' Association, yesterday presented gold buttons at East Pittsburgh to 20 employes, each of whom has completed 45 years' service. Those still in service are J. R. Backofen, James C. Bennett, J. McA. Duncan, Harry Marcellus, E. S. McClelland, Peter O'Biren, A. Orhmler, J. R. Payne, E. H. Sniffin, G. E. Spamer, J. A. Stock, Harry J. Vogel and George White. Those on pension were Elias Craley, James Perry, W. A. Fisher, William Freidel, Levi Milbert, C. J. Schendel and L. P. McCune.

Roper to Address Life Underwriters

William W. (Bill) Roper, former Princeton football coach and a Philadelphia councilman, will speak at a luncheon meeting of the Pittsburgh Underwriters' Association in William Penn Hotel tomorrow. He will discuss plans for maintaining production in the agency he manages in Philadelphia. The Princeton Club of Western Pennsylvania will attend, according to Lawrence C. Woed, Jr., chairman of the program committee.

Lots of Native Sons and More Willing to Be

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

The presidential list of the nominated, mentioned and missing, contains the names of 31 native sons.

And plenty more who are willing to go native.

Presidential candidates are arriving by boat and train.

It's a big year for the boys who want to save their country at any cost.

If the field gets any bigger we will have to run the November election in three heats.

This crop of early January morning glories will never flower in the White House. They can't stand transplanting.

There is always a premature school of native sons running ahead of the real candidates just as the mennaden precede the mackerel.

It's the dark hoss who gets the full derby route.

Barn Fire Blamed On Jobless 'Guests'

Bethel Township firemen battled for more than three hours a fire which swept through a barn on the farm of J. Brown, Washington-Canonsburg road, last night with an estimated loss of $3,000. Homeless men sleeping in the structure were blamed. Lack of water handicapped firemen.

Land, Buildings Here Worth $1,201,320,000

Total valuation of land and buildings in Pittsburgh is $1,201,320,000, the Board of Assessors has informed City Council. Council requested the information in connection with its budget activities for 1932. Land valuation is $586,017,000; building, $615,303,000.

City Bureau Merger Saving Report Asked

The Civic Club of Allegheny County, in a letter to Council, has asked what saving in personnel and expense would result from consolidation of the Bureau of Recreation and the Bureau of Parks, called for in the 1932 budget. Announcement of the consolidation does not disclose the economies, the letter says. The club says it will reserve its final judgment until it learns who is to be head of the combined bureaus. Council referred the request to the Public Works Department for a report.

MISS SALLY FLYNN EXAMINING LATEST GLASSWARE AT SHOW IN FORT PITT . . . FLAT WARE, TABLE SETS IN RUBY GLASS

Gets Perfect Hand, Screams Instead Of Bidding

A perfect bridge hand, composed of 13 hearts, was dealt Mrs. H. E. Fetters, of 1038 Mirror avenue, Squirrel Hill, in a game at her home last night. Asked what she bid on the hand, she said:

"I didn't bid. I screamed!"

The other players were Dr. H. E. Fetters and Mr. and Mrs. William Fink, of 6447 Forward avenue.

Aliquippa Boy, 9, Injured by Auto

Sokratis Aghanassion, 9, of 93 Sheffield avenue, Aliquippa, was treated for lacerations of the head and face received, police said, when he ran in front of an automobile driven by Randolph Corbin, Negro, of 166 Monroe street, Aliquippa, in Franklin avenue, Aliquippa, last night.

Market Men Warned To Halt 'Numbers'

Loss of North Side market house stands was threatened lessors last night by E. J. Foley, new head of the Bureau of City Property in an order demanding the cessation of "numbers" playing in the market zone. Foley said between $1,500 and $2,000 daily is being played.

Glass, Pottery Show Here Reveals Simple Designs

Milady's desire for modernistic and futuristic figures in her dresses having waned, dinnerware makers have taken the hint. Dinner sets, too, have dropped such designs for the simple natural figures of flowers and scrolls.

This secret of how manufacturers change figure patterns is revealed at the annual glass and pottery exhibit being held for buyers and salesmen at the Fort Pitt and William Penn hotels. The show, not open to the public, continues through January 21. It is the mart where the bulk of the industries' business is placed for the year.

In glassware the buyers are showing preference for ruby. A green and a blue are the next choices. The milk-glass of 50 to 75 years ago is staging a comeback in tableware. Imitation Waterford, the contribution of Ireland in the 1800s, will be found in early designs.

The plain glass baking dishes find competition in creations matching the design and quality of regular chinaware. Mirrors in the flat glass exhibits bring an innovation in etched scenes. Dinner sets also are featured in plain colors with embossed or raised designs on the edges.

The Frankstown-Brushton Community Organization has petitioned Council for acquisition and renovation of property at Bennett boulevard and Batavia street for playground purposes. The site contains seven acres.

Residents of Harlan avenue, North Side, asked that the avenue be graded and paved and curbed to prevent rain from clogging sewers and flooding cellars.

RIVER 'VICTIM' FOUND IN DAZE

While the river patrol dragged the Allegheny River in the vicinity of the Sixth Street Bridge for the body of a man thought to have ended his life in the river, Charles Patterson, 35, of 522 Avery street, the supposed victim was found wandering in Bellevue without hat and coat.

Patterson told Bellevue police that he had intended to end his life in the Allegheny, but had backed out.

Mrs. Patterson told police her husband had been drinking and last night went on a rampage, tearing up their marriage certificate. Patterson will be arraigned before Magistrate Ray Schneider in North Side Police Court today.

Mt. Lebanon Barn Destroyed by Fire

A frame barn on the property of James Giulini, Kewana avenue, Mt. Lebanon, was destroyed by fire early today. Mt. Lebanon firemen were summoned but when they arrived the structure was enveloped in flames. The damage was estimated at $800.

Russia's Aims Denounced As Anti-American By Catholic College Head

Communism in Russia today is demanding the blotting out of everything "for which our forefathers fought and died," the Rev. Edward A. Walsh, vice president of Georgetown University, said last night in an address in Fort Pitt Hotel before the Retail Credit Men's Association. He spoke on "Soviet Russia."

Americans forget that the United States was the first nation to recognize the Russian revolution, in which Kerensky was swept into power, he said, while the one by which Lenin came into power eight months later is the one which the United States government refuses to recognize.

Father Walsh said that class warfare is kept constantly in mind and that the aim of the Soviet leaders is to so carry on that there will be no peace on earth until their aim is accomplished.

STEAM ENGINES FOR PLANES TO BE RE-TESTED

Cleveland Firm Revives Plan Attempted in 1896 By Samuel P. Langley

Revival of the idea of steam power for airplanes, the theory used by Prof. Samuel P. Langley, of Pittsburgh, in attempted flights in 1896, will be started in Cleveland within the next 30 days.

Small modernized team units similar to those used by Langley in his early tryouts, will be carried into the air to check their performance. The units are approximately one-fourth the size of those intended for installation in large flying boats. One will be taken up first in a standard airplane and tested in complete assembly later.

TURBINE DESIGN

Capt. H. C. Richardson, technical director of the Great Lakes Aircraft Corporation, where steam power for airplanes is being developed, says the plant to be used will be a turbine design. Steam will be generated in a boiler and condensed in the plane's wings.

The engine will be an oil burner. Its advantages over the gasoline motor, Capt. Richardson declared, consist of reduced fuel and lubrication costs, fire hazards, exhaust noise, vibration and the removal of the necessity for supercharging at high altitudes.

LONGER 'LIFE' SEEN

The use of one steam engine will supplant an entire battery of gasoline engines on the larger planes, Capt. Richardson declared. The life of such an engine would be measured in years and not in hours, he stated.

Prof. Langley came to Pittsburgh in 1867 as director of Allegheny Observatory. Many of his early ideas on aviation, although unsuccessful at the time, have been since shown to be correct. He died in 1906 in Aiken, S. C.

Gas Station Permit Order Won in Court

Edgewood Borough was ordered to grant a permit to C. B. Johnston, H. Howard Johnston and others to erect a filling station on their property at Maple and Edgewood avenues by Judge S. J. Snee in Common Pleas Court.

The Johnstons appealed from the refusal by the borough manager and the borough zoning board of adjustment and produced consents by all property owners within 80 feet of the site, except one. Judge Snee held that the site was clearly commercial despite a residential restriction.

"I read your column all the time and I think you give wonderful advice so I am bringing you a problem that is making me very unhappy.

"Maybe it will seem like a little matter to you, but it is an awfully big problem to me, and I need help on it.

"Here it is: I am 18 years old, and I have been going steady with a certain young man for about nine months now, quarreling but once. This quarrel was three weeks ago.

"I am considered a nice girl by all my friends and I have always been treated like one. Now until this time we quarrelled he B. F. always treated me that way, too. I guess he figured that he had been nice long enough.

"He got entirely too fresh to suit me, and I told him where to get off. We had quite a few words, and I told him never to darken my doorstep again. That we were through.

"A few days later he came around to apologize and I deliberately passed him up. I wouldn't listen to a word. Well I guess he decided then that I meant what I had said because he hasn't shown up since.

IS SORRY NOW

"And now that I've had time to cool off I am so unhappy. I go moping around all day long not knowing what to do because I miss him so.

"Will you please help me? What shall I do? I am sorry now that I wouldn't listen to his apology. Do you think it is too late to make up? Shall I tell him that it is all done with and forgotten, and that I want to be friends? I do miss him so!

MILLICENT.

Of course you do, kiddie! I know just how you feel and so will scores of other girls who read this. But how many of them will have the sense to do as you have done? However, you weren't all wrong. You were 100 per cent right when you refused to let him "get away with it." He was positively spunky enough and serious enough to "call" you, instead of failing for the girl there would be far fewer smashed lives and scarred hearts in this world. You're a good sport, and here's my hand to you.

WORTH LISTENING TO

But you made a big blunder when you refused to listen to him when he wanted to tell you how sorry he was and ask your pardon.

Apologizing is not easy. It takes courage and honesty to go to someone we've wronged and humble ourselves and ask for forgiveness and absolution. And how few have the courage and honesty to do it, even when we really mean it, and are sorry.

It is too late to repair your mistake. I don't know my dear. Perhaps it is. But at any rate you had too much pride to try.

Suppose you try telling him that you are sorry you refused to listen, that you appreciate his coming to you as he did now that you've had time to think it over, that you are willing to believe he will never make such a mistake again and that you would like to forget the whole thing and start over again. Then see what happens.

If he is regular he'll respect you all the more for having your own opinion of things, and if he's worth saving you're sure to do it. And here's wishing you happiness.

Women Romantic Till They Wed, Then Become Practical, Says Fay King

By FAY KING

I am inclined to believe that men are more romantic than women.

Women are romantic until they marry and then become quite practical.

But men, it seems to me, remain romantic until the end of their lives, and that is why they get themselves into such ridiculous excapades.

At heart each man is gallant, and ready to rescue some fair lady in distress.

One especially notes this in night life, which might well be termed Knight life. For here the fair ladies, though often unworthy, are well versed in the tender sob stories that so readily touch the romantic masculine heart.

To defend or befriend her he often defies the rest of the world, only to find, alas, that said fair lady is decidedly unfair!

Madge Works Far Into Night Writing Third Act

For several seconds after Lillian showed me her notebook, covered with stenographic notes of the beginning of the third act of my play, and told me that I had dictated 500 words of the 6,000 necessary for the act, I stared at her uncomprehendingly.

"I knew if you could just get past that hurdle of beginning the thing you'd move along like an express train," she said, pride investing her voice. "And believe me little one, I didn't breathe while you were winding up the reading over of that second act. I ripped the curtain shut as unobtrusively as I could and could have yelled right out in my elation when I saw you putting the actors around without realizing that they had to have a complete change for the third act. When you looked over at me and said 'Curtain rises,' just as you had at the beginning of the other acts, I had all I could do to keep from flying the bathetic and sinuous Star-Spangled Banner. I am glad your subconscious mind was working, and that the act was safe."

It is an old jest of Lillian's, my subconscious mind, which she insists gets into action whenever I have an important piece of creative work to do. Ever since I first began to dabble with writing she has insisted upon having me dictate to her, saying that it was a favor because it brushed up the stenography which she had learned years ago in her early youth.

"You never know when I might have to earn my bread with it again," she said often.

"You won't have to take any drastic measures," I told her. "You've fairly shamed me out of my cowardice. And of course the first few lines of the thing were what I dread most. With them out of the way I can go on in some way. Will you read them over to me please?"

"Nothing doing!" she said firmly. "You've got enough to go on with that last speech of Cuthbert's. You're serving them now, hot off the griddle, and they don't even need maple syrup they're so good—take it from me as knows. I haven't been Harry Underwood's wife all these years without having some of his critical faculty rub off on me. Girl, the stuff's there! But if you read it over now, in the state you're in, you're likely to find yourself 90,000 feet in the air with no parachute handy. You'll want to throw every word of it away. Don't I know? Haven't I been through this performance with my own job time and again? No, m'love, I read you nothing except a last line occasionally, until you finish baking this particular batch. So get busy. Here's your last line once more. Cuthbert—'Then all these years have been—' It's Ethelberta's cue."

I had "Ethelberta's" answer upon the tip of my tongue, and I gave it to her, making the mental comment the while that before Lillian transcribed the lines upon the typewriter I must change the names of my characters from the absurd ones which she and I had given them when I first settled down to the writing of the play. But I soon forgot even that necessary detail as there came to me one of the rarest and most enjoyable moments in all creative work, when thoughts and appropriate words with which to clothe them came trooping into one's mind unsought and unheralded. So often writing, like all other creative work, is as laborious and humdrum as pulling deep-rooted weeds in a neglected garden. But with the last lines over I found myself putting words into the mouths of the two puppets almost without my own volition, and the scene unrolled itself before me as if the tiny doll actors were endowed with life.

Twice during the night Katherine slipped unobtrusively into the room with cups of black coffee and plates of salty crackers. We ate and drank mechanically, almost without stopping the dictation, and it was not until two hours after Katherine's last appearance that a vague thought which had been trying to force itself upon me found voice.

"I'm afraid something's the matter," I said, cutting a speech in two. "Katherine was pale, and her eyes had a worried look."

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Hope That New Test May Eradicate Scarlet Fever

Scarlet fever is a disease of children rarely seen in adults. It is highly contagious and rapidly spreads from one child to another. All too often serious complications follow this disease.

Dr. Copeland

Children react differently to this malady. A child with a mild form of scarlet fever may pass it on to another child who then may have the disease in a much more serious form.

I wonder how many of you know that there is a test by which a child's susceptibility to scarlet fever can be determined. This is called the "Dick test." It is based on the same principles as the "Schick test," which determines a child's liability to take diphtheria.

In the Dick test a small amount of a prepared toxin is injected under the skin. It is a simple and painless procedure. If a reddish spot appears on the skin within 24 hours, the child is regarded as susceptible to scarlet fever. If the reaction is positive this spot does not disappear for from two to three days.

When the test is negative and the child is not susceptible to scarlet fever, there is only a slight discoloration and this disappears within 24 hours.

Although scarlet fever is extremely contagious some children do not contract it. This is due to a natural immunity which they possess. This immunity, or resistance to the disease, increases with age and that is one of the reasons why the disease is rarely seen in adults.

Few young children possess this immunity. It is important for them to acquire it, if possible.

Many authorities believe every child should be tested to find out whether he is susceptible to scarlet fever. If the test is positive, the child should receive a series of injections of scarlet fever toxin so that he may build up his resistance to the disease. These injections are given at weekly intervals. Their success is checked by another Dick test to determine whether or not the desired immunity has been developed.

Encouraged by the amazing success of the efforts to control diphtheria, it is hoped that scarlet fever will be eradicated eventually. This can only be hoped for when there is complete co-operation between parents and health officers.

Since the test is so simple, every mother should think seriously about the advantage of this added protection for her child. Anyhow, talk with your doctor about it.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Second Marriage

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am going to be married very soon and I would like to know if this is correct. I was married in dark blue before, and now I should like to be married all in white, with a veil. And I would also like to know what kind of flowers I should wear.

If this is not correct, will you please advise me? I am divorced and have a little girl. I am going to be married to a bachelor in the home in the afternoon. W.

No, this plan isn't a bit correct, my dear, and if you carry it out you will lay yourself open to the severest of criticism. It is only for the bride-for-the-first-time to dress in white with a veil. It would be terribly out of place for you especially since you have a daughter.

You should wear an afternoon costume or your traveling costume, either with a hat. And you may carry a small bouquet or, better, wear a corsage.

The Lady's Privilege

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When dining out with a young man at a Chinese restaurant, should the young lady or the man pour the tea? M.

It always seems to me vastly more appropriate for the lady to pour the tea, no matter where the couple are dining or lunching. Pouring the tea seems to be more in woman's province. And any man is relieved to have the woman say, "May I serve the tea?" or words to that effect.

How Do Women in the Movies Manage?

Filming a picture means weeks of work without a pause. The star can't stop because she is "indisposed!" Monthly sickness does not excuse her. If you know some woman who is in pictures, she will tell you how Hollywood women manage during those pain periods. Try to find even an "extra" girl who doesn't carry Midol with her.

Midol was a marvelous discovery. It isn't harmful. It isn't a narcotic. But it acts in seven minutes—ends all pain or discomfort for hours at a stretch. Just ask for Midol at any drug store.

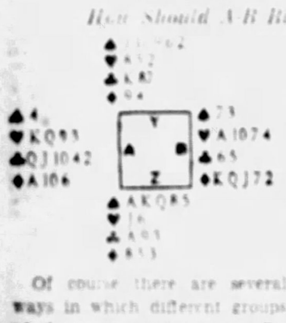
How Should A-B Bid Over Z's One Spade?



Of course there are several ways in which different groups of players may bid over over Z's opening declaration of 1-Spade but the best way for A to show that he holds five assisting tricks for any response by B with strength in each of the unbid suits, is for A to make an informatory double of the opening bid. It does not matter whether Y bids 2-Spades or passes. B holds cards worth a trifle more than five probable tricks at Diamonds or a bit better than four probable tricks at Hearts, which justify a response of 3-Diamonds. In case B bids 3-Diamonds over Y's pass the unnecessarily high rests to his partner's double shows game hopes, if B makes a voluntary response of 3-Diamonds over Y's bid of 2-Spades the fact that B has volunteered a declaration after Y's intervening bid has canceled B's obligation to respond to his partner's double shows game expectations.

In case Z passes A should bid 4-Diamonds. If Y has bid 2-Spades and B has overcalled with 3-Diamonds Z probably will go 3-Spades and A must bid 4-Diamonds just as he should do in case Z passes the 3-diamonds.

Y should pass the 4-diamonds. Knowing that four-odd can be made four times as frequently as five-odd B should try out his partner at hearts by overcalling the 4-Diamonds with 4-Hearts. Should A not like the second suit shown which he knows is based upon only four cards he may shift to a game bid in diamonds. Z must pass the shift of make and A should do the same, when opponents open contracting a slam is usually impossible (even five-odd is difficult to make against an adverse opening bid.

As the cards lie A-B must lose just three tricks regardless of which red suit becomes the trump. They must lose one trick in spades and two tricks in clubs. If played at hearts A will trump the second round of spades. B will pull down opposing trumps in three leads, leaving one big trump in his own hand after which B will run off his solid suit of five diamond tricks and take his tenth trick with his last trump. Then he must surrender the last two tricks to opponents' top club.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

The general health affects the finger nails. Pink nails signify good circulation. Brittle nails are the result of diet deficiency, lack of lime and good vitamins. Those pink sheaths that protect the finger tips require daily care, a careful cleansing of the eaves and softening of the cuticle with cream.

Dandruff is the result of a too active shedding of the skin of the scalp. Digging at it with the finger nails is a bad habit, productive of more scales, with chances of inviting infection. Ordinary cases of dandruff can be cured by applying hot oil at night, shampooing next day, keeping combs and brushes scrupulously clean.

Household Hints

Grease stains may be removed from clothing with a paste made of fuller's earth and water. Apply this to the stained parts, allow to dry and then brush off.

Always empty the tea kettle in the morning and put fresh water in it before putting it on to boil for tea. It is unhealthy to use that which has stood all night.

When cleaning suede gloves put them on and rub them well with fine oatmeal. Obstinate spots can be removed with benzine.

Fruit stains on white or light fabrics may be removed with borax. Stretch the material over a cup of water, damp, then sprinkle with borax and rub in round and round.

YOUR CHILD'S COLD needs attention. Children's Mild Musterole, safe counter-irritant, applied every hour for 5 hours, should bring complete comfort.

My dear—you have no idea how shocked I was . . . !

YOU know I spent the week-end with Helen. Someone really ought to speak to her. She's such a nice girl, and she's perfectly fastidious about everything else. But she wears her underthings a second day—and everybody perspires a little. Why does she run the risk of offending?"

Personal daintiness! The subject of whispered comment, veiled hints. Lose it and you lose all chance of social acceptance.

Fresh lingerie each day is absolutely essential to daintiness. All day long underthings absorb perspiration. A daily change is even more important than a daily bath. And it's so easy to wear fresh lingerie every day. For Lux removes every trace of perspiration, yet protects colors and fabrics. And it takes four minutes or less. Wash underthings and stockings in Lux diamonds, after each wearing.

Underthings absorb perspiration. Avoid offending . . .

Protect daintiness this 4-minute way

1 Wash this 4-minute way: 1 tablespoon of Lux diamonds does 1 day's undies. Dip up and down, rinse twice, squeeze in bath towel, shake out. Then they're fresh and sweet!

2 Wash after each wearing, for perspiration acids left in silk fade colors and rot threads. With Lux it takes only a few minutes—less time than it takes to wash your face and hands.

3 Never rub dainty lingerie with cake soap. Rubbing tends to streak colors and weaken fabrics. Tests show Lux removes perspiration acids completely—yet leaves colors sparkling, like new. Anything safe in water alone is just as safe in Lux.

Your Hands—they deserve gentle care, too. Use Lux in the dishpan . . . costs little . . . keeps hands white and smooth . . .

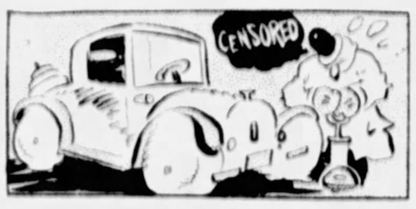
PIRATE CONTRACTS SHOW SALARY CUTS



SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS

BEST IN PITTSBURGH — TUESDAY, JANUARY 12, 1932 — TWENTY-ONE

TECH PRIMED FOR TEMPLE

Sport Comment

By JAMES J. LONG

Clubs Unite in Pay Cuts. • Gomez Faces Problem.
Many Holdouts Probable. | Old Basketball Stars.
Spare Smaller Salaries. | Feather Crown Jinx.

TERRY TO FAIL IN HIS TRADE DEMAND

THE DEMAND OF Bill Terry, in refusing to accept what he says is a 40 per cent reduction in salary, that the New York club trade or sell him to some other outfit in the big show, isn't likely to get him anything. None of the clubs has uttered an audible word about extending the cutting to both sides of the book and making baseball cheaper for the fans by reducing the admission or reserved seat rates—in New York the latter run to $2—but there is no doubt that in the matter of reducing their own expenses by bringing down salaries the major league magnates have an understanding, are working together solidly and will refrain from butting into one another's operations.

Bill Terry

Seemingly it's to be a hands-off policy all around while each club hands out its own cuts and forces the acceptance of them. There was a time when, if one club found itself at odds with valuable players, several others would have been willing to take over that player and consent to his terms. But not now.

IN A CONCERTED movement to slash salaries each club is expected to have the backing of all the others in every cut that it makes, and Terry probably will discover that no other owner will make any attempt to get him in a deal or will be willing to pay him any more than New York has offered.

Possibly the Giant bosses will boost the Terry ante later. They may have purposely put the figures below what they are really willing to pay in order to allow room for a subsequent raising of terms. But that President Stoneham is sincere in his statement that Terry will not be sold or traded is not to be doubted. The moguls probably figure that to give in to one holdout, instead of forcing him to accept terms or remain idle, would weaken the whole salary-cutting campaign.

IT IS EVIDENT, too, that the paring policy is aimed mainly at the higher-priced players. There will be little or no tampering with the pay of the athletes drawing average sums, but the boys who have been pulling down the fancy figures seemingly will be made to bear the brunt of the retrenchment steps.

A record-breaking holdout crop may be the result. The stand taken by Babe Ruth, Hack Wilson and Terry is only the start, and there will be kicks aplenty from other sources before the various clubs succeed in lining up their players for the season.

FIGHTERS ARE NOT the only sports figures being harassed by increasing weight. The same nightmare is causing woe in major league baseball circles here and there, and among those worrying about threatened double chins is one of the most valuable pitchers in the big show in the person of Vernon Gomez. Last season Gomez weighed only 155 pounds. It was figured then that a little more weight wouldn't hurt him, but now it is feared he has taken an altogether too much, for he tips the beam at 174.*

Vernon Gomez

REMOVING THE EXTRA poundage from Gomez will be one of Manager Joe McCarthy's big problems during the Yankee training trip. The left-hander has been ordered to report without fail when the first Yankee squad starts for St. Petersburg on February 19, and extra work will be prescribed for him to get him down to pitching weight.

It would be a fatal blow to the Yanks' flag hopes if Gomez failed to get in shape for the 1932 race. He was the best young hurler in the majors last season, winning 21 games against nine defeats, and ranked second only to Lefty Grove in the American League earned-run averages. Charley Berry, Red Sox catcher and Grove City football coach, said here last fall that Gomez required only control to become an even greater pitcher than Grove.

THE FOLLOWING WAS received from Dad Beigle: "I read your article on the best basketball player of all time. I've been following the game for 30 years, and have seen all the good teams. Saw Harry Hough in his first appearance against the South Side team, and the first time he got the ball and started down the floor he brought the crowd to its feet, as the fans here had never seen any such dribbling.

"Hough was also the coolest player I ever saw. One night when South Side was playing in McKeesport, the score was tied, and Hough was fouled just as the bell rang. The basket was on the stage, and the stage was filled with McKeesport rooters, who were stamping and yelling for Hough to miss. But Harry walked to the foul line as if he were alone in the hall, laid down the ball, took off his elbow guards and coolly dropped the ball through the hoop.

"I THINK HOUGH was the greatest team player of all time. Here's a team that I believe could hold any five of the present day: Hough, Ferrat and Fogarty, forwards; Keenan, center; Kinkaid and Woolwarth, guards. I have named three forwards because Fogarty and Ferrat were wonders while playing together, but Hough would have been a wonder on any team. Of our own boys the old South Side team was a great one. It played them all, feared none, and played for the love of the game. The team was made up of Leibau and Leithead, forwards; Nickel, center, the only man around here who could give Keenan any trouble, and Wetzel and Windeknecht, guards. They gave us some great basketball, and it took Hough to show the South Side a better grade. Then Johnny Freund, wise old owl, got Hough and put Pittsburgh on the map in big time basketball.

BATTLING BATTALINO and his manager, Pete Reilly, refuse to admit that the former has outgrown the featherweight class hopelessly, and to prove that he can still make the weight Battalino has contracted to meet Freddie Miller at 126 pounds in Hartford on January [illegible]. In the opinion of most of the eastern boxing men, however, this is only a grandstand gesture on the part of Battalino's manager.

They can't see a chance for Bat to make the weight and be strong enough to stand up. Indeed, they doubt that the match will ever come off. Tom Donohue, one of Connecticut's boxing powers, is so wrought up over last week's affair in New York that it is said he may forbid the proposed Battalino-Miller meeting.

THE GENERAL OPINION is that Battalino is definitely done as a featherweight, and veteran ring men see in his fate evidence of the continued activity of a weight jinx that has hit the majority of champions in that class.

Johnny Dundee

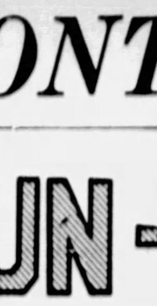
As far back as 1890, it is recalled, Billy Murphy, of Australia, had to give up the crown because the weight, then 122 ringside, was too low for him after he had won the title by defeating Ike Weir, the Belfast "spider," in 14 rounds at San Francisco.

IN LATER YEARS the scales vanquished a number of others. Young Corbett, because of inability to make the weight, could not even claim the title after defeating Terry McGovern. McGovern, too, outgrew the division. Johnny Dundee had to relinquish the honors in 1925 because he could not get down to the limit. Louis (Kid) Kaplan won the elimination tourney for the diadem but increasing poundage forced him out in 1927. Making the weight was held to be the cause of Tony Canzoneri's failure to retain the title when he met Andre Routis, as Tony had to take off two pounds a few hours before the fight. And now comes Battalino as the latest victim. It is predicted by some fistic veterans that Battalino will not be able to remain long in even the lightweight class, but will be a welterweight within a year.*

PAUL WANER, KREMER GIVEN REDUCTIONS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Two of the highest-paid Pirates, including one or two others who are not so fortunate, are due to be walloped in the pocket-book sector, it was hinted today by Buccaneer officials. The local owners, it is reliably reported, have just sent out the 1932 players contracts.



Pie Traynor

Outfielder Paul Waner, who tops the list of Bucs in the matter of pay, will be the first to be asked to accept a substantial re- [illegible] Pitcher Guy Kremer, apparently, is the second nominee.

Brother Paul's contract for 1931 called for approximately $15,000 while Kremer, who could not hit a winning stride last year, was paid a sum to be in the neighborhood of $12,000.

Capt. Pie Traynor, with a stipend somewhat below the amount paid to P. Waner, is likely to escape the pruning knife for a very good reason.

PIE WAS AGREEABLE

When the Pirates were harvesting their bumper crops, over a long period of years, beginning with Pie's advent into the league, the thirdbaseman followed a most generous policy in salary matters. Traynor refused to be a "holdout" in those fat years, and in the lean years he will reap a premium for his attitude.

The Waner boys were both "holdouts" in the spring of 1929. Brother Lloyd capitulated early, but Paul remained outside the fold up to within a few days of the sounding of the championship bell. Both fell below their batting standards last season, yet they can show two good reasons for their slip. The "rabbit ball" was missing from the National League, and the two little lefthand swatters had to swing against an amazing number of southpaw pitchers. Something like 70 portsiders started games against the Pirates.

The little centerfielder, nevertheless, may not have to take a reduction.

MEINE WANTS BOOST

Another who is likely to be pained when he looks at his 1932 contract is Pitcher Ervin Brame, who was sick during most of last season's campaign. Brame just missed being in the "five-figure" brigade last year, it is said.

Pitcher Larry French had a good year in 1931 and Larry will be running true to form if he holds out for a raise.

The real fly in the ointment for the Pirates may be Pitcher Heinie Meine, who was a slab standout in baseball last year. Heinie seeks a big raise in pay.

The new contracts having been mailed by several clubs you may look for a big "holdout" session.

SMITH ANNEXES L. A. OPEN

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 12.—(AP.)—MacDonald Smith, veteran of a thousand golfing battles, yesterday won the Los Angeles open championship for the third time in seven years, covering the 72 holes in 281 strokes, three under par. The victory increased the Smith bankroll by $2,000.

A four-way tie was established for second place. Leo Diegel, Dick Metz, San Angelo, Tex.; Joe Kirkwood, and Olin Dutra, a California golfing giant, had scores of 285 and were each rewarded with $937.50. A stroke back at 286 were Gene Sarazen, Clarence Clark, Jersey pro; Ralph Guldahl, a Detroiter, and Abe Espinosa, Chicago. Their reward was $250 each.

The best golf of the tournament was shot in the final round by Ray Mangrum, young unattached Los Angeles pro, formerly of Waco, Tex., who played his last 18 holes in 67 strokes, four under par. Only a bad 78 in the second round kept the Texan from a greatly improved position. His 287 gave him no better than tenth place.

Walter Hagen finished in eleventh place with 288. Roland Mackenzie, Washington and Los Angeles Walker Cup veteran, led the amateurs with a total of 291.

The golfing caravan was on the move today with Agua Caliente, Baja California, Mexico, as the objective. The Agua Caliente championship, with $15,000 the stake, opens tomorrow.

Fistic News? Here 'Tis Served Red Hot

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

Well, if it's news and views on boxing you want, here's an earful and an eyeful:

Motor Square Garden came up today with a match between Mose Butch, of Oakland, and Jimmy Thomas, Hill Negro boxer, as its windup for next Monday night. They will meet at 120 pounds. Butch was to box Al Brown, the world bantamweight champion, at the Garden last night, but the latter had to pull out because of illness and it was announced that, with Butch in shape, some other nationally known bantamweight would be signed to meet him next week. Instead of this, however, the club comes up with a local affair that involves no carfare and probably very slim percentages. Oh, well. A local match that will go through may be better than one involving a champion who is getting himself well drubbed in California and then showing up unfit at the eleventh hour. Incidentally, the Garden announces that fans who bought tickets to see the champion of the world fight can use them at the same prices for the substitute affair or have their money refunded.

The Garden, dark last night, also will be shut down to boxing for two Monday nights following next week because of the automobile show, but a card may be arranged for the middle part of the second week.

BRANNON GIVEN CONTRACT

Promoter Jim McGirr, of McKeesport, has completed his card for his show Thursday night, when he will show Billy Holt against Marty McHale, Billy Flanagan against Jimmy Moore and Joey Bazzone against Mickey DePalmo in three 10-rounders and Jimmy Lozies, of McKeesport, against Johnny Montebano, of Braddock, in the six-round opener. Eddie Sago, amateur heavyweight, of McKeesport, was to turn professional in the opener, but has changed his mind.

Eddie Brannon, Negro lightweight, of the Hill, has been given his contract by his manager, Mike Ray, and they are parting on good terms. It was a two-year document and had a year and a half to run.

BELMONT BUYS CAR

Ted Yarosz is anything but pleased over the fact that he isn't on the card at the Garden next Monday night, after having beaten Jimmy Belmont on Christmas Day and being promised this date. He was willing to take on Jackie Fields, Eddie Ran, Paulie Walker or almost anybody except King Tut, the Garden's choice. Belmont, who has bought himself an automobile since the Christmas show, is having too much fun with it and couldn't be bothered getting into shape to take on Tut in Yarosz's place and that's why Tut isn't fighting.

Johnny Dunn, of New Kensington, has signed a two-year contract with Ray Foutts, of East Liverpool, O., and is in line for a bout with Eddie Shea at Springfield, O.

M'TIERNAN'S PLANS

'Tis rumored in high places that Buck McTiernan is plotting to hook up with Pete Reilly, manager of Battling Battalino, the featherweight champion (or is he?), as soon as his contract with Bunny Buntach expires in April.

The diamond studded belt boxing tournament under the auspices of the Al Sands A. C., in Uniontown, has drawn 144 entries and it will be necessary to extend it into three nights. The preliminaries will be fought tonight and tomorrow night and the finals Wednesday of next week.

MAY RETIRE, TERRY SAYS

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 12.—(AP.)—Bill Terry, star first baseman of the New York Giants, said here today he would not accept a 40 per cent salary reduction next season if "I never wear another uniform."

Informed that President Charles E. Stoneham, of the Giants, had indicated he would have to play on the management's terms or remain idle, Terry said:

"He's running his own ball club and can do as he pleases, but I am not going to accept any salary cut unless there is a general cut all over the league."

Ko-ko-mo Kids Lead In Tenpin Match

Rolling in fine form, the Ko-ko-mo Kids tenpin team, of East Pittsburgh, grabbed off a big lead in the first match of its home-and-home series with the Perry All-Stars, of the East End, on the Votel alleys, in East Pittsburgh, last night. Votel was the big scorer, with games of 235, 243 and 225, and the Votels finished with 3,199 pins to their credit against 2,715 for the Perrys.

The second match is scheduled for the Perry alleys in the East End at 9 o'clock Saturday night. Last night's scores:

W. & J. Boxers To Meet Bucknell

WASHINGTON, Pa., Jan. 12.—Wash Jeff's intercollegiate boxing schedule was increased by one match yesterday, when Bucknell University was added to the card for competition at Lewisburg on February 11.

SKIBOS EXPECT STRONG FOE TONIGHT

GAMES TONIGHT

Temple U. vs. Carnegie Tech at Tech Gym.
Waynesburg vs. Geneva at Beaver Falls.
Wash Jeff vs. Bethany at Bethany.
Concord State vs. D. and E. at Elkins.

By JESS CARVER

Temple University's Hoot Owls meet Carnegie Tech's Hoot Mons tonight in the Tartan gymnasium. The Owls are making their second appearance of the campaign with this evening's game, having had their feathers ruffled by Pitt in the city's inaugural college contest a couple weeks before Christmas. They lost that one, 29-21.

Bob Smith

Just because the Panthers took the Owls, however, doesn't mean that the game is going to be a setup for the Tartans. Since losing that game to Pitt, the Philadelphians have accomplished a pair of notable feats, trimming the crack C. C. N. Y. and Villanova varsities, both touted as being among the strongest fives in the East.

And in losing to Pitt the Owls demonstrated enough class to indicate that all they needed was some seasoning.

OWLS HAVE CLASS

Carnegie has been moving along in easy style recently. The boys have taken Yale, Buffalo, Chicago, Wash-Jeff and Thiel in a row. Coach Buzz Hogan's first stringers, Bob Smith, Lou Jagnow, Ed Stentz, Red Fergus and Jimmy Leonard, have been close to dazzling in their performances. Smith is up among the scoring leaders of the sector and is leading his team in point getting.

Tech had best keep a close watch on Temple's Mister Fitch and Temple's Mister O'Brien, to say nothing of the fast hoofing Eddie Beron. Beron was the lad who gave Pitt so much trouble.

The entire district card is attractive for this evening. Waynesburg and Geneva meet in a Conference clash at Beaver Falls. Wash-Jeff faces its third loss in as many starts as the Prexies stack up against Bethany and Concord State figures to have but little chance against the D. and E. Scarlet Hurricane at Elkins.

The probable Tech-Temple lineup:

Carnegie Tech		Temple
Beretz	f	Fitch
Jagnow	f	Goodberger
Stentz	c	Liebenberger
Leonard (Capt.)	g	O'Brien
Fergus	g	Beron

The Tipoff

The speculation as to the outcome of tomorrow's game between Pitt and Duquesne is getting to be something terrific. Where? Are they arguing? They are. Both coaches, Carlson and Davies, have their supporters among those who know the ins and outs of the game, and the majority of these lads are inclined to favor the Dukes. They figure smart players such as Marts Reider and Mac Dougall will be too tough for Pitt, despite Pitt's reputation and edge in experience.

About the only edge Pitt will have over Duquesne will be the one mentioned above, in experience, and the advantage that goes with playing on their own floor. Besides, there may be a tendency on the part of the Dukes to play Pitt and not the Pitt players, who, after all are no different in physical and mental makeup than the Dukes.

Coach Davies Frankie is practically over the game. He mentioned something Sunday afternoon at the meeting of the officials and coaches about a 40-point holding. It always is the coach's prerogative, may the right, to predict defeat, but Mister Davies appears to be offside in fearing defeat by such a margin. Of course, he was kidding, but he's scared of the game, anyway.

Carlson doesn't have so much to say, the Doctor always figures his team is going to win until the game is over. During the past few years he has been quite correct in doing so, and he's going to stick on every game, the fight and scrap of his boys and on the idea that he can get them right materials for the struggle. And [illegible] can and will.

Anyway, it will be well for all the boys and girls to get out to the Stadium Pavilion early Friday night. The place is going to be jammed. If we just had our Town Hall, we could put 15,000 in for this one, which is the city's greatest basketball natural of all time. There are four times as many folks who will be fortunate enough to see the game will have to read about it in the papers. Get there early.

Socko McCarey Has Appendix Removed

Caleb (Socko) McCarey, Pirates' clubhouse boy, had his appendix removed in St. John's General Hospital, Woods Run, this morning. The operation was very satisfactory to the attending physicians, who stated that McCarey was in fine shape about two hours after the surgical treatment was given.

The patient had had several rather bad attacks and his ailment was diagnosed as chronic appendicitis. He entered the hospital yesterday afternoon and was immediately prepared for the operation.

PACKERS SIGN HINKLE

GREEN BAY, Wis., Jan. 12.—(AP.)—E. L. Lambeau, coach of the Green Bay Packers, 1931 National League football champions, has announced that Herman Hickman, All-America guard from Tennessee, and Clarke Hinkle, Bucknell fullback, has been signed to play with the Packers. Both have completed college competition.

HENRY FIRPO COPS

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—(AP.)—Henry Firpo, middleweight from New Castle, Pa., outpointed Wild Willie Oster, Boston, in eight of the 10 rounds to gain the decision in the main bout at White City last night. Firpo weighed 161½ pounds to 167 for Oster.

P. T. A. SETS EXPANSION PROGRAM

DAVIS CHOSEN DELEGATE TO BIG CONFAB

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

The Pittsburgh Tennis Association met in mid-winter conclave at the P. A. A. last evening and from its deliberations evolved two items worthy of outstanding mention. First President J. Phillips Davis, donor of the famed Davis Keg emblems for local net team supremacy, was chosen special P. T. A. delegate to the annual Middle States L. T. A. pow-wow at Philadelphia Saturday, second the 1932 Western Pennsylvania championships will be staged on the clay courts of the Shadow Heights Golf Club beginning Saturday, June 18 and ending Sunday, June 26.

The selection of Davis as Steel City representative and proxy holder for an P. T. A. club votes came unanimously and arrived as result of the desire of district moguls to withhold official indorsement or disapproval of either of the warring factions of the national net body and to pass upon principles rather than individuals at the Middle States session.

Davis will go to Philadelphia uninstructed, insofar as Pittsburgh sentiment upon either the conservatives of Holcombe Ward's "Committee of 100" or the insurgents of Paul Gibbons Quaker City and Mid-Western followers is concerned.

"Use your own good judgment in favoring or rejecting all propositions, should adhere to the best interests of the game in general with special reference to its advancement in the United States and more particularly to the sectional associations," is the sole admonition that will speed the departing envoy. T. Coleman Ward, veteran P. A. A. star and racquet official, was named alternate to Davis and may accompany him eastward.

STANTON OFFER ACCEPTED

Gracious proffer of Stanton Heights tourney facilities for the forty-fifth West Penn event was extended to President Davis yesterday morning by E. Bruce Hill, chairman of the Heights tennis committee. It was accepted needless to say with utmost cordiality by the gathering last night, so that next June aspirants to the coveted McCahill and Wagner trophies will congregate for their fourth consecutive title melee on the Black street lot.

Frank S. Smith, Edgewood leader and boss of the highly successful 1931 tournament was designated to care for the destinies of the 1932 debating. He will announce the personnel of his various committees in the not-distant future. Meanwhile, machinery has been put into motion whereby repetition of last year's date conflict between the major net events of Pittsburgh and Cleveland will be obviated.

Consideration of possibilities for P. T. A. missionary work this spring claimed keen attention. President Davis reported the likelihood of a new Inter-Club League division to be composed of teams from Allegheny Country Club, Pittsburgh Golf Club, Fox Chapel Golf Club, Edgeworth Club and the Longue Vue Club these aggregations to compete among themselves upon a more or less informal basis and the winner of their round robin to encounter the Section I victor in a special playoff for the Davis Keg.

Allegheny C. C. and Pittsburgh C. C. already are members of the P. T. A., and there exists a strong inclination among racqueters of the other trio of organizations to plunge into the competitive swim. Play at Allegheny, Longue Vue and Fox Chapel would be on grass—an innovation in loop circles here.

SEEK TERRITORIAL RIGHTS

In addition to the foregoing outfits, negotiations have been inaugurated to greater or less degree with Shannopin Country Club, Wilkinsburg Tennis Club, Sewickley Y. M. C. A., Greensburg Country Club, Jeannette Tennis Club, Country Club of Pittsburgh, Westmont Tennis Club, Dravo Tennis Club, West View Tennis Club and Uniontown Tennis Club.

In line with the foregoing program of expansion, President Davis will negotiate this weekend for Middle States sanction of a proposal to augment the scope of the P. T. A. to that of a group functioning nominally and territorially under the title of the Western Pennsylvania Tennis Association. The idea was suggested by U. S. L. T. A. Secretary Paul Gibbons at a recent luncheon in Pittsburgh and proved popular with Steel Citians who yearn for more acreage to enroll under the banner of tennis.

Austin Famariss, College Avenue luminary, will serve as chairman of the new teams committee soon to embark upon the task of converting independent court combines to the P. T. A. cause.

COLLEGE HILL DISBANDS

It was announced that Howdy Campbell's clever College Hill crew from down Geneva way has disbanded for 1932 because of economic difficulties. The heterogeneous Hilltoppers however have indicated that they will spread among their respective towns and aid in promotion of a Beaver Valley circuit to embrace fairly capable squads from Beaver Falls, New Brighton, Monaca, Ambridge, Koppel and College Hills itself for the impending campaign. All hands hope to return to the P. T. A. wheel in 1933.

The third yearly "Tennis Night Smoker" will be staged at the P. A. A. on Tuesday, May 10. Howard Moore, College Avenue captain, landed the chairmanship again and promised the customary fancy time of it.

The roster of the winter soiree [illegible] Beatty, W. E. Snyder, W. W. Bowers and C. D. Henderson, Edgeworth; Dr. R. H. Mackenzie and C. D. Houghton, Fox Chapel; T. C. Ward, J. A. Willard, Edward Moore and Austin Famariss, College Avenue; Neal O. Rumer, Mt. Lebanon; Henry Ackerman and Harold Hatch, Rockwood; F. A. Weiss, Thornburg.

ROUSH GIVEN RELEASE

CINCINNATI, Jan. 12.—(AP.)—Eddie Roush, for years one of the National League's most brilliant outfielders and a former batting champion, was given his unconditional release today by the Cincinnati Reds.

Roush, who formerly played with the New York Giants, said he is through with baseball. He announced he would make no effort to join either a major or minor league club.

Chicago Seeks All Title Events

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—(AP.)—If the sports committee of Chicago's 1933 World Fair Association gets everything it wants, there will be very little doing anywhere else.

J. Loman Bingham, secretary of the committee, of which George F. Getz is chairman, has invited every organization sponsoring national championships to hold its title event in Chicago during the fair.

The major events being sought are an Army-Navy football game and other outstanding sectional gridiron meetings, national interscholastic and intercollegiate track and field meets, the national A. A. U. track and field championships, all major golf tournaments, and international soccer tournament and world championship boxing and wrestling matches.

Not to mention championship meetings in everything from motor boating to ping-pong, including wood-chopping and rogue [illegible].

W. VA. STUDENTS UNDER FIRE

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Jan. 12.—(AP.)—The Athenaeum, West Virginia University student newspaper, says today that H. A. Stansbury, director of athletics, has charged 183 students with "both stealing and forgery" in connection with alteration of football tickets.

Stansbury wrote to the students the publication says, calling upon them to "make adjustments upon your athletic ticket improperly used for the (West Virginia) Wesleyan and Penn State football games."

The Athenaeum says coupons 16 and 17 in student activity books were used by students to gain admission to the two games by erasing the first digit in each number so that the coupons appeared to be numbers 6 and 7. This enabled the use of two coupons from each book for admission to each game.

The newspaper adds that the students have been called upon by Stansbury to make good the $2 admission charged for the Wesleyan game and the $3 charged for the Penn State game.

Barry was injured when the machine in which he was riding skidded on the icy pavement, struck a car driven by William Hermann, Sharpsville, and then overturned.

Dr. William Applegate, County Coroner, is investigating. Barry was a member of the Traxler team and one of its star pointgetters.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

GAMES TONIGHT

Detroit at Toronto.
Montreal Maroons at N. Y. Americans.
N. Y. Rangers at Boston.

By CARL W. SHATTO

If the action in the second half of the 1931-32 race is at all similar to that provided in the first half of the campaign, the fight for play-off berths in the International Hockey League will be the closest and most sensational in the history of the circuit.

Most of the teams in the loop, including Pittsburgh, now have only three more games to play before winding up the first half of their 48-game schedules, but several weeks of campaigning have provided little indication as to which entries will participate in the post-season series.

TEAMS WELL BUNCHED

Four teams are to become eligible to the play-offs. Buffalo, out in front by two and one-half games, is almost certain to be one of the contestants, but as for the other three places—Detroit, in second place, is only two games ahead of Pittsburgh and Cleveland, tied for the sixth berth. The situation is such that the winning or losing of a single game may make or break a team's chances of getting into the championship battles.

PREPARE FOR OLYMPICS

The Yellow Jackets engaged in a workout today in preparation for their game with the Detroit Olympics at Duquesne Garden Thursday night. Capt. Tory Gregg, the stitches removed from the severed muscle in his leg, participated in the drill and indications are that he will be back at his right wing post for the fray with the Michiganders. Doc Romnes, on the sidelines with a crippled shoulder during the Jackets' last two fights, also will be back in harness on Thursday.

The Schooley Junior sextet defeated the Bloomfield Collegians, 14-6, in a junior independent game at Duquesne Garden last night.

MAX IS TAME IN EXHIBITION

BOSTON, Jan. 12.—(AP.)—With Jack Sharkey looking on, Max Schmeling last night put on a tame exhibition against the three sparring partners in his road company. The Boston heavyweight, like most of the other 10,000 spectators, did not appear to be enthusiastic over the champion's performance.

Before Schmeling got down to business Sharkey climbed inside the ring and gave him a cordial greeting.

The champion took several solid body punches from George Panka, of Pittsburgh, but was able to toy with George LaRocco and Pedro Lopez, of New York, his heavier-footed sparring mates.

Shillan will challenge for his driver, Charles Harrison, the European outboard racing champion who recently made 55.6 miles an hour. Harrison will bring the boat to the United States late in February and will go directly to Miami Beach.

SOCCER REPLAY IS SCHEDULED

By TOM BIRKS

The scheduling of the Castle Shannon Morrys-Bridgeville replay at South Park for Sunday by National Amateur Cup Commissioner Sam Parks means that the West Penn semi-final game between the Morrys and Morgan must be postponed.

The local commissioner does not want to hold up the national tourney so the championship is to be put back one week. The game between the Morrys and Bridgeville upset the predicted dope that trouble was brewing.

The Castle Shannon Juniors did themselves proud at Akron, holding the national champions to a 3-1 score. It must be remembered that the Shannon team is a junior outfit, and they held Akron to a 1-1 score at halftime. Shannon should have put the game on ice in the first half, five corners were forced in quick succession, and Smith, the outside left, missed three open goals.

The crowd gave the Pittsburghers a rousing cheer upon leaving the field, for they had outplayed the titleholders.

STOGIES FAVOR SMALL LOOP

WHEELING, W. Va., Jan. 12.—(AP.)—Wheeling last night joined the clubs favoring an eight-team Middle Atlantic League next summer.

Charles Holloway, owner of the Wheeling Stogies, says he will take an emphatic stand for an eight-club loop at the league meeting in Pittsburgh Sunday.

Holloway also said he will support a plan to place all clubs on an equal guarantee basis. Last year, teams playing day games were required to pay $100, teams playing night games had to pay a guarantee of $125.

The Wheeling owner said he had come to terms with a new manager, but declined to divulge his name.

The local team has been designated as a farm of the Detroit Tigers, of the American League, and the major club will supply the entire personnel this year.

Holloway said all the players reserved at the close of last season have been released.

Dr. Shanor, Pitt Team Medico, Weds

Dr. H. A. R. Shanor, Pitt team physician, and Ruth Snelure, of 437 South Aiken avenue, were married this morning by the Rev. Henry H. Bagger, of Swissvale. The ceremony took place at the Rev. Bagger's home, at 199 Dewey street.

Dr. Shanor succeeded Dr. D. W. Kendrick as team physician in 1929. Dr. Shanor is a graduate of Wash-Jeff and of the Pitt Medical School. He maintains offices in the Medical Arts Building, Oakland. Dr. Shanor served as physician for the State Boxing Commission.

Strong Has Bone Removed From Wrist

DETROIT, Jan. 12.—(AP.)—A small piece of bone was removed yesterday from one of Ken Strong's wrists, and the rookie Detroit Tiger outfielder hopes he will be bothered no longer by the fracture he received last season while playing with Toronto.

The wrist was fractured in an International League night game at Buffalo and it affected his batting and throwing for the remainder of the season.

PASSER INJURED

WASHINGTON, Pa., Jan. 12.—The first basketball casualty of the season here was reported last night from the Y. M. C. A. camp, Donald Pugh, 18, of Grove avenue, obtained a fractured left forearm. Playing with the Employed Boys' team against the Y. Seniors, in an Association League game, Smith bumped into another player and fell heavily. He will play no more this season.

DON GEORGE HURT

BUFFALO, Jan. 12.—(AP.)—Ed (Don) George crashed through the ropes and into the concrete floor of the Auditorium here last night in his wrestling bout with Joe Malcewicz, of Utica. He received injuries to his back and head that made him unable to climb back into the ring before referee Sidell had counted 10 over him and declared Malcewicz the winner.

BERNARD CUE WINNER

John Bernard defeated C. Mitchell in a one-sided Pittsburgh three-cushion billiard match last night, 50-18, in 74 innings.

SCHOOLEYS WIN AGAIN

The Schooley Juniors defeated the Bloomfield Collegians in a one-sided hockey game at Duquesne Garden last night, 14 to 6.

NEW COACH HANDICAP RULING

DAYTON, O., Jan. 12.—(AP.)—Entrants who have shot at less than 90 targets in regular targets prior to the 1932 Grand National Handicap tournament will be given a handicap of no less than 20 yards, it was ruled at a meeting of the executive committee of the American Trapshooting Association here yesterday.

MATCH TRANSFERRED

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Jan. 12.—(AP.)—Unwilling to comply with state athletic commission rules, Lehigh University authorities have transferred a wrestling match with Princeton, Saturday, to Prince-ton, N. J. The match was scheduled for this city.

JESKO, HYATT LEAD SCHOOL SCORERS

By JULIUS LEVIN

Bill Jesko, of South, and Arthur Hyatt, of Schenley, the latter a brother of the famed Charley Hyatt, are battling neck and neck for the individual scoring laurels in the Section I race, and Waukauska, of Allegheny, and Weber, of Allegheny Vocational, are staging a merry duel in Section II, according to figures compiled by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Jesko has registered 10 field goals and seven fouls for a total of 27 points, one more than Hyatt, who has bagged 11 field goals and four fouls for a total of 26 points. Dejudas, of the league-leading Connelley quintet, is just two points behind Hyatt with seven field goals and 10 fouls.

Only one point separates the two leaders in Section II. Waukauska has nine baskets and three fouls for 21 points, while Weber shows eight field goals and four fouls for 20 points.

LEAD AT STAKE

First place will be at stake in Section II today when Langley and Allegheny, deadlocked for the top position, clash at Allegheny. Both teams show two victories and no defeats. Oliver plays at Perry and South Hills at Carrick in the other Section II frays.

Connelley High, leader in Section I, goes after its third victory at the expense of Westinghouse at Westinghouse. South will be the attraction of Fifth Avenue and Peabody at Schenley in other Section I duels.

The majority of the W. P. I. A. L. teams will remain idle until Friday, when league warfare will be resumed.

The team and individual scoring records for the two sections of the City League follow:

STOCK MARKET MAKES SLOW ADVANCE

Rails Continue to Exert Upward Influence; Steel Narrow; Trading Sluggish

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—(AP.)—The advance in share prices was a slow and straggling affair in today's market, but rails continued to exert an upward pull.

The persistent improvement in the rails encouraged some bullish activity in other sections of the list, but the advance showed signs of tiring, and brokerage quarters were inclined to feel that extension of the recovery would require some distinctly favorable piece of news.

Advances of a point or two appeared in such issues as Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, Northern Pacific, Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio, Atlantic Coast and Rock Island. Oils also worked higher. Standard of California gained about a point, and several others moved up fractionally. Radio Corporation reflected bullish activity with a 1-point gain. Other issues up a point or so included International Telephone, American and Foreign Power, Westinghouse Electric, Eastman, the American Tobacco issues and American Smelting. U. S. Steel moved narrowly. Trading was decidedly sluggish.

London Shipping Gold to France

PARIS, Jan. 12.—The Bank of France continues to receive gold from London, apparently shipped by the Bank of England and sold against francs. It is possible this is preparatory to repayment of the balance of the Bank of France credit maturing early in February.

It is semi-officially denied that the Bank of France itself is buying gold.

Goodyear Rubber Loses Patent Suit

CLEVELAND, Jan. 12.—Federal court has decided in favor of Overman Cushion Tire Company of New York, in its suit against Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company. The petition charged infringement of patents of the Overman Company. Overman asks $500,000.

U. S. Daily Average Oil Production Up

TULSA, Okla., Jan. 12.—Daily average production of crude oil in the United States during the week ended January 9 totaled 2,219,458 barrels, an increase of 18,347 barrels daily over the preceding week, according to the Oil and Gas Journal.

Central Loadings Higher for Week

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—New York Central Railroad loadings for the week ended January 9 totaled 38,301 cars, against 36,440 in the week preceding, and 48,184 in the like 1931 week.

Milk Firm Plans Record Budget For Advertising

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—The Carnation Company has announced an increase of 10 per cent in the 1932 advertising budget, a move which officials described as meaning the biggest advertising year in the company's 30-year history.

Railroad Leaders Oppose New Line

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—(AP.)—Heads of three western railroads, the Atchison, Union Pacific and Denver & Rio Grande, today notified the Interstate Commerce Commission they will oppose efforts of the promoters of the Denver Pacific Railroad to obtain permission to build the 850 mile line from Denver to the coast.

The Denver Pacific Railroad would run from Denver to San Pedro, Cal., by a route much shorter than any in existence.

Grand Trunk Asks O. K. on Extension

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—(INS.)—The Grand Trunk Western Railroad today asked the Interstate Commerce Commission for authority to extend an existing line of railroad by car ferry between Muskegon, Mich., and Manitowoc, Wis.

The operation will be conducted under an agreement between the Grand Trunk and the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Grand Trunk-Pennsylvania Transportation Company.

Britain's Exports Up in December

LONDON, Jan. 12.—The British Board of Trade returns for December show total imports of £77,027,000 against £83,231,000 in November. Exports amounted to £32,077,000 compared with £31,863,000 and re-exports totaled £5,536,000 against £4,966,000.

Imports of iron and steel were 266,901 tons compared with 379,363 in November, while iron and steel exports amounted to 175,256 tons, against 195,703.

Interest Reviving In N. Y. Pig Iron

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—New York pig iron market is dull, but there are signs of reviving interest. Several consumers in the district are reported as stating that business for them has improved slightly. Stocks of iron in consumers' yards are low, and there is opinion in the trade that irrespective of whether business improves, there will have to be an increase in iron buying soon.

Firestone Gives Up Tire Firm Position

AKRON, O., Jan. 12.—Harvey S. Firestone, Sr., president of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, told stockholders he would relinquish the presidency and request the board of directors to elect him chairman of the board.

The election of John W. Thomas, a vice president, to succeed him as president, would be asked, Mr. Firestone said.

Large Cleveland Banks in Merger

CLEVELAND, Jan. 12.—(AP.)—A merger of two of Cleveland's largest banks was announced last night. Effective today the Midland Bank, with deposits of approximately $28,000,000, will become a part of the Cleveland Trust Company, which has deposits of more than $245,000,000.

Youngstown Sheet Reopens 10 Mills

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Jan. 12.—The Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company will resume operations of 10 mills at its Campbell plant after several days' idleness, bringing the total of the district sheet mills in operation to 33 from the current total of 23.

Copper Exporters Marks Price Higher

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Copper Exporters, Inc., has advanced the price of copper ⅛c a pound to 7.625c c. i. f. Hamburg, Havre and London.

Forbes

Beware When Competition Grows Weak

By B. C. FORBES

DO YOU BELIEVE this statement:

"The time to fear competition is when there is not enough of it?"

It comes from an unusually successful electric refrigeration dealer, R. W. Moore. He proclaimed as his 1932 slogan, "The more competition the merrier." Here is his logic:

Mr. Forbes

"I find it much harder to sell without competition than with it. With many salesmen out in the field telling the story of electric refrigeration, people become interested more quickly. When sales slacken, it is a sure sign that my competitors are not working as hard as they should.

"I do not hesitate to tell them so. Not only do I sell more business when my competitors are hitting the ball, but they also enjoy similar success.

"I work hardest when my competitors are most active. It's a certainty that I won't get my share of the business unless I do. To appreciate your competitors, you also must appreciate the value of hard work."

THERE IS, I rather think, truth in that reasoning. I was once on a publication which enjoyed practically a monopoly in its field. It moved along uneventfully, exercising very little initiative or other enterprise, made ends meet, but not much more.

Competition entered the field. The owners became alarmed. They immediately instituted aggressive policies. Dry rot was eliminated. Salaries of the best employes were increased and better men were hired to supplant the mediocrities.

Within two years the property doubled in value, profits rose, circulation increased, the publication was notably improved. Everybody felt more alive — success, I fully realize that

WHAT ARE THE most important qualities for a salesman faced on all sides with competition? R. H. Grant, who directly or indirectly has more motor salesmen under him than any other man in the world, replies:

"I believe that spirit and enthusiasm are even more important in sales managers and salesmen that the best plans in the world, though planning is of great importance."

He told a gathering of salesmen about his uncle, a New England storekeeper who permitted a very successful pickle manufacturer to make a special display of his pickles, and was astounded at the quantity promptly sold. Young Grant later conducted a similar experiment—with similar results. He declared:

"I then became convinced of the value of sales promotion. While I am fully convinced that a good product is the first fundamental for business success, I fully realize that that is only the first step. Ever since then I have been thoroughly convinced of the value of sales promotion effort."

How is it with your sales promotion effort?

MORE AT WORK IN DETROIT

DETROIT, Jan. 12 — Increased demand has necessitated stepping up of production by the Motor Wheel Corporation to a point where the factory is operating on a schedule 300 per cent higher than at any time during the past six months.

Employment at the Lincoln Motor Company last week reached a total of 3,600, the largest since 1928.

Average employment for 38 Lansing, Mich., factories in December was 8,827, comparing with 8,193 in November, and 9,593 in December, 1930.

Shipment of Tires Higher in November

Shipments of pneumatic casings for November amounted to 2,887,464, an increase of 1.3 per cent over October and 1.9 per cent above November, 1930. This compares with a usual seasonal decline of 26.3 per cent, according to Rubber Manufacturers' Association.

Production for November totaled 2,500,788 casings, a decrease of 15.9 per cent from the preceding month.

Pneumatic casings on hand November 30 amounted to 7,919,034 units, a decrease of 4.6 per cent under the month previous.

Vice Overlord Tells Daisy He'd Like to 'Help' Her Officer Friend

(Adapted from the original motion picture story of W. R. Burnett. With screen play by John I. Mahin; produced by Cosmopolitan Productions and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.)

CHAPTER V.

Fightin' Jim Fitzpatrick lived over the river—lived in a modest little home which was exactly like twoscore other modest little homes in the district. The only difference in these homes, like peas in a pod, were the numbers over the doors. He knew other coppers who were getting the same salary as he got who lived more ostentatiously, some in swanky apartments in buildings they owned, some in the rococo residential sections. These coppers had cars, expensive cars, too, and their wives put on ultra priced furs and high spiced airs. But none of these coppers could hold their heads as high as Fightin' Jim. There was a reason.

When he left headquarters on this evening he felt that something was in the air. He couldn't quite put his finger on it. Some of his old friends, higher in rank, had come in and spoken to him on matter-of-fact things and seemed ready to tell him something else, but had left without any intimation of their mission. So Fightin' Jim wanted to walk home and think things over.

The thoughts that intagliated themselves on his mind were swift etchings of the scenes in a wide-open town. These thoughts nauseated him, for he well knew that any city with 18,000 coppers peppered through it could offer no alibi for organized vice. As he strode along his face was serious and grim. His thoughts were grim and serious. His mind worked with dizzy rapidity— An endless chain of pint bottles jiggling on a carrier, passing under a corking and top-labeling machine.

A long caravan of liquor trucks passing through the darkened streets. A section of a black-and-tan dance floor, bodies glued together and bobbing to barbaric strains. spinning roulette wheels surrounded by nerve-tense men and women in evening clothes.

SURPRISES WIFE

Fightin' Jim gritted his teeth. His feet pounded on the pavement. He clenched his fists.

"Damn it all!" he exclaimed aloud. "I'd like a chance to clean up things. All this only makes crooks out of coppers and killers out of crooks."

He had reached his door. He stooped and picked up a toy truck which lay on its side. He smiled and tucked it under his arm and opened the door. The placating odor of well-cooked food met his nostrils. In the living room he saw Mary, sitting beneath a lamp sewing. He tip-toed in, stole behind her chair and then threw his arms around her neck and kissed her.

"Oh, Jim!" she cried, "you frightened me so!"

"Where's the kid?" asked Jim. "He's left this truck on the front door step again for somebody to break their neck on—"

"Don, scold him, Jim," begged Mary. "You're a little late, aren't you? Supper's been waitin'."

"Yes, I walked home. I'm as hungry as the—"

NOTIFIED OF CHANGE

He was interrupted by a shrill blast of a police whistle. He smiled.

"The postman," he said, starting to throw off his coat. Mickey came racing in, loudly blowing the whistle, several letters in his hand. Jim reached down and grabbed him up and hugged him, whereupon Mickey let go a loud blast in his ear. He let him drop quickly and frowned, but Mickey continued to blow the whistle and thrust forth the letters. Jim took them casually, glanced at them and then quickly isolated one. His steady hand shook as he held it. He threw the others on the table and opened the one in his hand as he sat down.

"... And because this reorganization of the department goes into effect immediately, you are hereby advised you must report for duty at Glendale station not later than Thursday.

"GEORGE BURTON,
Chief of Police."

"Supper's on the table, Jim," called Mary.

"I don't think I'll eat anything," said Jim in a hollow voice, his arms dropping to his sides.

* * *

Guiseppe Belmonte, fat and sleek overlord of vice, viciousness and violence, leaned back in his huge handcarved chair, which sat on a raised dais like the throne of a feudal prince. His patent-leather clad feet were thrust forward and rested on a silk cushion. He slowly blinked his eyes and raised now and then to his lips a long black salt-water stogie—the last vestige of his street-cleaning days.

Far different was the layout of this movie-set hideaway from the bare office where Fightin' Jim Fitzpatrick had picked him a week before. Heavy velvet draperies, huge plush overstuffed chairs, soft Oriental prayer rugs, paintings in massive gold frames with little shadow-lights above them, soft, colored diffused lights— thus was appointed the Big Boy's throne room.

Daisy Beaumont seemed lost in a gargantuan chair sitting directly in front of Belmonte on his throne. Trim, attired in a blue tailored suit and saucy little hat with a red feather she sat, hands folded in her lap, waiting for Belmonte to speak.

"I am informed," he said at length, in a lazy indifferent voice, "that Jim Fitzpatrick's brother Ed has tumbled for my little secretary."

"Former secretary," calmly corrected Daisy, smiling.

"Don't you know," he continued, letting his large sad eyes rest upon her, "that once in, always in"—it's the law."

"Listen, Belmonte!" exclaimed Daisy, bobbing to an upright position. "I don't know much about your affairs—and what little I do know I've long ago forgot. You say once in, always in. The cops say once in, always in. Can't a girl go straight? Just because some dirty skunks jammed her does she always have to lead the life of a crook? The cops say, 'Do this for us or we'll do that to you.' You say the same thing. I'm not a crook and I'm not in any racket. If I happen to meet a cop and, like him, and he likes me—ain't we both human beings?"

"I think it's a great idea for the cop liking you, Daisy," said Belmonte, taking an interest in his stogie. "But I don't care so much about you liking the cop—get me?"

Once again his eyes turned on her, but this time the lids narrowed a bit. Then Belmonte shrugged again, and began to smoke.

"But——" she blurted.

Belmonte raised a pudgy hand and a huge diamond scintillated in the vari-colored light.

"I'm running my own show," he said. "I don't take any interference from cops—and certainly not from molls—what might know a thing or two about the Dopey Boys."

"You're a liar" cried Daisy, glaring at him. "If I steered one of the Dopey Boys I didn't know him from any of the other men you introduced me to. I think now you're trying to panic me. I don't know anything about that Dopey affair—"

"Well, I don't either," yawned Belmonte. "But you see, the word has been passed out—oh, maybe by some stool, who plays the game both ways—that Dopey was steered by one o' my blondes. That won't be nice when the cops get the gal's name—will it?"

"Damn you, Belmonte—you've double-teamed me!"

"Me?" and a hurt expression passed over Belmonte's fat, greasy face. "Me?" Do you think I'd frame a dame? I play the game with bigger cards than queens. But think it over."

"Well, what do you want, Belmonte?" asked Daisy hopelessly.

"Nothing—nothing—I'd just like to help along that boy friend o' yours. Why, he don't make enough now to buy you nice things—on a square copper's salary—poof!"

Synopsis

Daisy Beaumont, pretty platinum blonde, is sentenced to serve a long term in a reformatory when members of a corrupt police vice squad give false testimony against her. Jim Fitzpatrick, police captain, noted for his honesty and fighting spirit, knowing that Daisy was framed, succeeds in having her freed. When four racketeers are found murdered, Fitzpatrick suspects Guiseppe Belmonte, overlord of a huge vice ring. Belmonte is arrested. The police discover that Daisy is employed by Belmonte. The vice leader's attorney immediately gets busy to have him freed. Fitzpatrick is disgusted when Police Chief Burton allows Belmonte to go free on a writ of habeas corpus. Daisy is arrested again in connection with another case and is released when her innocence is established. Jim Fitzpatrick tells his brother Ed, sergeant of the vice squad, that he is determined to bring Belmonte to justice. Ed, who admires Daisy, visits her. She says she is appreciative of what Jim did for her.

Now Go On

"I don't think I'll eat anything," Jim told his wife.

ALL IN A DAY — By MARK HELLINGER

In Which the Customers Do the Work

"HERE'S A story for you, Mark," writes Milton Herbert. "More than that, I've written it to your order. If you don't like the way the tale is written, blame it on yourself. Maybe, as a pattern, you're not so hot.

"Over in Brooklyn lives an automobile salesman who mingles with a Broadway crowd every once in so often. He married recently, and is seemingly in love with his wife. He never fails to tell her, however, of the wild, wicked life he led before he was snared in the matrimonial net.

"Not only does he tell her these things, but he talks about it to others. When ever he arrives at a Broadway party and the drinks are handed around, he commences his spiel. To hear him tell it, his eye opener in the days gone by was a gallon of uncut rye. This guy is a lulu.

"But when it comes to his turn to take a drink, he shakes his head and nods in the direction of his wife.

"'Sorry, boys,' he smiles, 'but I have the little wife to take care of now. Can't afford the first one—because I'm a man that will drink two quarts before I'm satisfied. Now in the days gone by—'

"The other night, during one of these parties, the auto salesman finally met his giggle waterloo. An actor who is usually so drunk that they have to float him on to the stage arose to his feet.

"'Lissen,' he said, addressing the salesman, 'I've been hearing about your drinking powers for a long, long time. I'm going to call you right here and now. We'll have a li'l drinking contest, you and I. I'll take two drinks to your one and we'll see who lasts the longest.'

"The challenge was too much for the salesman's vanity. Here was his big chance to make good in front of his wife. It would probably be a cinch to drink this stew under a table. So he laughed heartily.

"'I'll take you,' he responded with a wide grin, 'but not on a two-for-one basis. Drink for drink—and the man who stands up wins the contest. Let's go.'

"With a confident wink at his adoring wife, he strolled to the table and opened a bottle of rye. Then, taking two large tumblers, he filled them to the brim with straight rye. Raising his, he gulped once or twice and drained his glass. It was a remarkable piece of drinking.

"The actor was much wiser. He finished his, too—but in much smaller doses. When he was through, he noticed that the beads were already standing out on the salesman's forehead. This time it was he who filled the glasses to the brim once again. Two such drinks would be enough to ruin any man. You know how it is, Mark?

"Meanwhile, the salesman was munching celery. There were other things to eat, but the salesman did not touch them. He wanted nothing but celery. After gobbling down three or four pieces, he picked up his glass, nodded wisely to his wife—and drank his second tumbler of straight rye.

"Within 10 minutes the salesman was in another room. He was out cold. When they finally revived him, he became sick. He moaned and he groaned and he whatnot. He was paying, as the saying goes, the wages of sin.

"Finally, after an hour had passed, he was sufficiently revived to stand on his feet. Weakly, and supported by his wife, he staggered back into the room in which the party was still in progress.

"He paid no attention to the actor but walked directly over to his host. His face was white—but in his eyes there was a black look.

"'As long as I live,' were the salesman's words to his host, 'I'll never eat anything in your home again. Your celery made me sick as a dog.'

"MAYBE," writes Hy Goldstein, "you'd care for this story about a chap who had a positive mania as far as license plates were concerned. Annually, this bird went chasing around for a license that would correspond with the phone number in his home. Ask me why, and I cannot tell you. He wanted his phone number and his automobile license to be the same number, and that was all there was to it.

"Money was no object. He entertained lavishly and he pulled every possible string. And in the end, after two months of hectic working, he got his wish. He was notified that he would have the plates he wanted.

"He closed his office and rushed home to tell his wife the good news. Although it didn't mean much to her, she was happy for his sake. You'd think the guy had just conquered the world, or sold his seat on the exchange, or some such fortunate thing.

"In the morning, on his office desk, he found a notice from the telephone company.

"'Dear Sir,' it read. 'On and after January 10th, your telephone number will be changed to ——.'"

* * *

"DID YOU hear the one about the tattooed man who went to a chiropractor for adjustment?" writes Hugh Wedlock, Jr. "Well, you should have.

"When the chiropractor got through, the tattooed man was as mad as the devil. Three pictures were out of focus!"

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS Junior Komic Club

The Manor Theater, Squirrel Hill, was filled to capacity for the Saturday meeting of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club. This is one of the largest and most active chapters.

From the very beginning the Boy Scouts of the Squirrel Hill district have taken an active interest in Manor Chapter. They conduct patriotic exercises at the opening and closing of every meeting.

The stage show put on by the members are almost professional in style and Manager Blowitz has discovered some real talent among his members. On the program Saturday were Patsy Steiner, in song and dance numbers, and Herbert Shubin, who kept the audience laughing with his comedy patter.

An added attraction was the appearance of Mascara, the magician.

Each member of the chapter, whose birthday comes this week, received a big birthday cake, decorated with his or her own name.

GRAND GREENSBURG

A new set of officers was elected at the Grand (Greensburg) Chapter Saturday. They are Ralph Fallacker, (Grand Jester) and Russell Rowe, Betty Brown, Michael Calaruso, Elsie Shapira, Jack McDonald and Patrick Murray, who will serve as the board of governors for the next four weeks.

The principal speaker at the Grand Chapter Meeting was "Red" Huntsberger, Boy Scoutmaster.

A stage program was presented by Betty Brown, Elsie Shapiro and John Rickey. Prizes for contests were awarded to John Prioletto and Jean Bair.

PRINCE AMBRIDGE

Another big dancing class opened the meeting of Prince (Ambridge) Chapter. Members presented a little musical revue. Myrna Heberling acting as mistress of ceremonies. The program consisted of a song by Jimmy Brown, toe dance by Winifred Barclay, a Spanish dance by Marie Simon and a song and dance number by the Estep sisters.

Contest prizes were awarded to Olga Swalykauch and Steve Nestick.

MEMORIAL (M'KEESPORT)

Manager McDonald, of the Memorial (McKeesport) assembled another excellent array of talent for his chapter meeting Saturday. On the program were LaVerne Bentley, Vera Hollywood, Harry Miller, Robert Nelson, Ethel and Stan (from Wilkinsburg), Dorothy Smith, Ruth Nelson, Emma Bentley and Jean Brown.

The contest prizes at the Memorial were won by Anna Svalvick and Emil Spehar. The door prizes were awarded to Irene Trager and Sidney Weiss.

BIRTHDAY GREETINGS

The Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club extends greetings to the following members, who will celebrate their birthdays tomorrow:

South Hills: Fred Sanmorn, Jr., Betty Jeanne Kiefer.

Belmar: Helen Rodgers, Bessie Hawkins.

Harris (Etna): Veronica Pranczak.

Schenley: Bertha Sumlar, James Butles.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

To the Sun, in Winter

Where have you fled, O golden sun—
To what strange realms afar,
Beyond the paths where planets spun,
Beyond each silver star?

O, sun, upon the summer sands
Your ardent kiss I knew,
Behind me lay the golden lands;
Before, sea's tranquil blue.

But now on this dim winter morn
In vain I seek you here,
I would be lonely and forlorn
On this deserted sphere.

But for the golden dancing flame
That flickers on my hearth
And, laughing, whispers whence it came—
How sunlight gave it birth.

It tells of sunlight's golden dower
To earth long eons through;
It sings: "Why, in a little hour
Spring will come back to you!"

Silence Please

Our readers are respectfully requested to stand in silence for two minutes as a tribute to Alixer B. Van Doakes, who has Hit-the-Nail-on-the-Head with the best suggestion for 1932. Doakes suggests that Prohibition Director Woodcock merely give no interviews for two weeks, and that the surplus optimism thus accumulated be packed in cartons and distributed among American business men to sprinkle on their breakfast food.

BE A PITTSBURGH BOOSTER
To Your Friends in Other Cities

A Town Hall Needed

Pittsburgh Continues to Require an Auditorium Seating At Least 15,000 Persons.

Father Cox plans to hold a mass meeting for unemployed women in the Pitt Stadium. The city has no auditorium large enough to accommodate the crowd that he expects to attend. It is to be hoped the weather will not be inclement.

Chancellor Bowman announces that the University of Pittsburgh commencement exercises will be held in the Stadium next June because if they were to be held in Syria Mosque, the city's largest hall, with capacity for only 3,500, it would be necessary to turn away thousands desirous of attending the graduation of relatives and friends. The graduating students alone will number 1,400.

Pittsburgh needs a Town Hall seating at least 15,000 persons, and the people want one. By a large majority they voted $6,000,000 in bonds to pay for it.

The new County Commissioners not only are opposing the Nicola site for the Town Hall, but show a disposition to drop the whole project.

Chairman McGovern is fortunately not quite so outspoken as the others in his opposition. He still speaks rather wistfully of his idea of transforming the Logan Armory into a Town Hall. It would only cost $1,000,000, he thinks, and the state would help to pay for its upkeep.

There lies hope in Col. McGovern's attitude that the County Commissioners may yet be led to give this community the large auditorium that it so sorely needs.

This may perhaps not be the best time for financing the job. But it is an excellent time from every other standpoint for going ahead. Building materials are cheap and labor is crying for employment.

Stephen Collins Foster

The Song Writer Whose Death Is Commemorated Tomorrow Is Perhaps Pittsburgh's Most Famous Son.

A traveler reports that while making a steamboat journey on a Siberian river he was surprised to hear the melody of one of Stephen Collins Foster's songs.

Another relates that performers in a London music hall called upon the audience to join with them in singing popular songs, and while the audience faltered over some of the songs they sang "Suwanee River" with the enthusiasm born of long familiarity.

Foster, born in Pittsburgh in 1826, is perhaps Pittsburgh's most famous son.

The sixty-eighth anniversary of his death is to be commemorated tomorrow with exercises at his grave in Allegheny Cemetery, with a radio program in his honor from WCAE, the Voice of the Sun-Telegraph, and with the playing of Foster melodies on the chimes of Calvary Protestant Episcopal Church, Trinity Cathedral, Highland Presbyterian Church and St. Stephen's Church in Sewickley.

Every Pittsburgher should do his part to honor Foster. One thing that can be done is to have the better known songs letter perfect and learn some of the others that are not so well known, yet are well worth knowing.

Mexicans in Pittsburgh

Arrival of a New Consul Calls Attention to a Comparatively New Element in Our Population.

The arrival of a new Mexican consul in Pittsburgh, Senor Luis Perez-Abreu, is a reminder of the presence in the local population of a comparatively new element.

Pittsburgh has experienced many waves of immigration. The Scotch-Irish were here first, and with them were Germans and Englishmen. Germans and Irish continued to pour in for many years.

In the latter part of the last century and early years of the present Italians and Slavs were most prominent among the immigrants.

When European immigration was shut off Negroes from the South and Mexicans flocked in to supply the demand for labor.

The Mexicans have made good workers, and have added an interesting touch to the cosmopolitanism of Greater Pittsburgh.

Many have recently returned to Mexico, Senor Perez-Abreu tells us; but his coming bears witness that a large number still remain.

A Compliment to Pitt

Post-graduate Students at Local University Bear Witness To Its High Standards.

A fine testimonial to the high standards and splendid reputation of the University of Pittsburgh may be found in the students who have come to the institution for post-graduate study.

A census discloses that they come from 41 states and five foreign countries, that there are 152 doctors of philosophy in their number, and graduates, holding degrees, of 243 universities and colleges.

They have come to the University of Pittsburgh from other colleges and from distant points because the university offers certain courses of study and advantages of location that cannot be obtained so satisfactorily elsewhere.

The estimate that these learned men and women from distant places and other colleges have formed of Pitt is worth the consideration of Pittsburghers who, because of proximity, have perhaps not been able to appraise the university at its true value as an educational center.

Useful Radio Cars

The Police Broadcasting System Has Proved a Valuable Innovation.

Police records show that of 3,894 automobiles stolen in Pittsburgh last year, 3,625 were recovered—a good performance.

The number of cars stolen was 950 less than the number in 1930.

Lieut. Edward O'Rourke credits the decrease in the number of cars stolen and the high percentage of recoveries to the efficacy of the police broadcasting system.

This is particularly gratifying to the Sun-Telegraph because it was at the suggestion of this paper that the system was established.

The police radio cars which have been cruising the streets only since May 11 last have already earned many times their cost by preventing crime and by bringing criminals quickly to book.

"Closed Incidents" -:- By Nelson Harding

Dispose of "incidents" like these:
A diplomat punched in the nose
They simply send regrets and close

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

These Modern Lovers

Being in love means merely spending half your time doing foolish things which you are bound to spend the other half regretting.

* * *

When a man reaches the age where he can no longer feel the ecstacy and enchantment of love, he begins trying to convince himself and the world that love is nothing but a biological urge.

When a man "pleads his love" these days, it sounds less like a plea than like a selling-talk, offering you something "special" at a great, big, wonderful bargain.

* * *

A woman may know that the man who "got away" would have made her utterly miserable, but, somehow, that never is any consolation for not having married him.

* * *

Doubtless, many a girl would catch double-pneumonia in these backless evening gowns, if she happened to leave off her big earrings.

* * *

A woman-hater is not so often a man who has passed up the wine of love as he is the one who has drained the glass and is suffering from the headache.

* * *

To a modern woman, a "necessity" is anything she thinks she ought to have, because some other woman has it.

Theoretically, every man is in favor of good, old-fashioned marriage, just as he is in favor of old-fashioned religion and morality. It's getting him to put them into practice that requires such a lot of effort and persuasion.

* * *

Many a man has deliberately tried to awaken a woman's love in the foolish delusion that he can lull it back to sleep again in a few weeks.

* * *

The practiced lover may sometimes take his love-making seriously, but he is always surprised and hurt if the girl does.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—On a stretch of upper Central Park West, is a bay-windowed house, with every appearance of a private residence, which is the hide-away for drink and drug addicts—usually of social rank. Here high-fliers lodge for a clipping of wings.

While under medical supervision, its sponsor is neither a physician nor a psychologist in the academic meaning. I dropped in the other day to call on a patient who had wound up there following what he called "a prolonged bat."

Before departing I talked to the head of the institution, who has had years of experience in reclaiming the drinker. It's his firm belief there is no inherited craving for alcohol. He purports to have proved it hundreds of times.

He points to the fact there is not a drop of alcohol in nature. Instead of a "natural product" alcohol is an excretion. In short, the garbage of vegetation, the offal of decaying plant life. More than 50 per cent of drinkers start through the channel of sociability.

While we were talking there was a confusion in an outer hall. Through an open door I saw an extravagantly furred creature in a dismaying state of dishevelment. With hiccuping lurches she was being led to the stairs. A veil slipped and revealed the blurry profile of a great artist.

The institution believes every drunkard is sick. His tissues are poisoned, cells are loaded with under-oxydized material and elimination is imperfect. Another thing I learned about the confirmed "sot." Invariably he wants to organize a barber shop quartet.

His favorite classic is "Sweet Adeline" in 98 tests out of 100. Science, incidentally, is able to tell with mathematical certainty when a man is drunk and how drunk. Generally speaking, it is discovered that a person is intoxicated with a single drink.

* * *

Some psychiatrist, by the way, could put many of his instruments on the blink testing me today. I'm nursing a set of the obble-gobbles as the result of a note from Dr. Guy Campbell enclosing the following:

Railroad Problem: There are three men in a train crew, Smith, Robinson and Jones. They are guard, engineman, and fireman. There are three passengers, Mr. S., Mr. R., and Mr. J. Mr. R. lives in Leeds. The guard lives half way between Leeds and Sheffield. Mr. J. earns $480.50 per month. The guard's nearest neighbor (one of the three passengers) earns exactly three times as much as the guard. The guard's namesake lives in Sheffield. Smith beats the fireman at billiards. Who is the engineman?

A venerable, kindly artist who does not wish to be involved in controversy sends me a ludicrous expose of the graphic ribaldry that has convulsed the metropolis and outland for two years. He shows that three of our oh, so sophisticated artists have been really revamping risque stories of 40 years ago and placing them in modern settings with a background of up-to-date slang. As he so ably says: "It doesn't matter, for they are amusing to the present generation in new dress, but we oldsters chuckled at them long ago. What tickles me is that the delincators are championed as originators of a new style of humor, are invited to teas and interviewed by gushing lady reporters."

* * *

Recently my wife and I selected a Boston puppy for her sister, Nelle, in a West Virginia city. It was brought home to be shipped the same afternoon. We decided to keep it over night. The next day we found thin excuses to keep it two more days and the time extended to a week. And if this column isn't so much today, dog lovers understand. The pup is on his way. Had he remained I planned to re-name my apartment "The Kennels."

-:- LISTEN, WORLD -:-

By Elsie Robinson

All these people who go whining and peeving around, and then admit—in fact, practically boast—that it's because they have "inferiority complexes!"

That term has certainly become a grand, blanket alibi for a lot of good, old-fashioned human cussedness. And I suspect it is because the term itself is too classy. It actually puts a premium on belliakin.

Would they boast that way if the world laughed at them and told them they had just a fit of pouts? Of course they wouldn't. But being all dolled up like that with scientific terminology, they naturally want to show off.

Now psychology is a fine thing and I'm one of its most enthusiastic devotees; but I do believe it would show more results if it were mixed with a little hoss sense. There's certainly much to be said for the old, scientific methods of handling such matters.

Remember when you and I were 18 or 20, stranger, and full of the usual kid quirks—flying into tantrums, cherishing grudges, going off in corners and chewing our nails? Did anyone pull a long, scientific face and tell us we were suffering from an "inferiority complex"—and then try to analyze and coddle it out of us?

They did not. They told us we were downright ornery, and that if we didn't perk up and quit our contrariness they'd lambast the everlasting daylights out of us. Which may not have been either refined or scientific, BUT IT CERTAINLY GOT RESULTS.

"But such reactions are not contrariness," protests someone. "They are symptoms of a deeper trouble. There's a reason for them, and science has discovered that reason."

Of course, there's a reason. But why go into that? If we decide to dig up all the reasons for human cussedness, and analyze 'em and card file 'em and make passes at 'em, what time will we have left for our regular chores?

Our ancestors also realized that there were reasons behind human meanness, even if they hadn't been coached by Messrs. Freud and Adler.

They knew perfectly well why little Annabelle Rose acted up after bady sister was born; but they didn't waste time or flatter young Annabelle Rose by explaining that she had developed an inferiority complex.

They merely said that her "nose was out of joint," and told her to run along and behave herself or they'd know the reason why. And, generally speaking, Annabelle Rose snapped out of it and became regular.

With all due respect to scientific progress, I do feel that this rough-and-ready method had the bulge on our modern technique. Do we cure cussedness by illing some ornery human that he has an inferiority complex? Far from it. He immediately thinks that he has something rare and important, swells up like a dirigible and goes around showing off and boring everyone to tears with the details.

So I have decided that I'm for the abolition of scientific titles and other fancy alibis for plain peevishness.

Except, of course, for my own. You can't slap my peeves off like that, for my peeves aren't really peeves at all; they're just signs of a gnawing, secret sorrow.

But then, I'm different.

Roosevelt on Banks And Leadership

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works now writing for The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

In the first part of his message, Gov. Roosevelt surveys the economic conditions of the country as a whole and makes numerous observations that are interesting and to the point. Nowhere in his comments can he be accused of intolerance toward those who have in large measure been responsible for bringing about the American contribution to the debacle.

Indeed he says that it would be "ungracious" to accuse groups or individuals. And yet the tariff act which has closed the foreign markets in our faces was due, not to the people as a whole, for these protested, not to business as a whole, for a large part opposed it; certainly not to the financiers, for they were dead against it and the economists were almost unanimously hostile to it. There was a group, and a comparatively small group, that forced that destructive act upon the statutes, represented by Mr. Grundy; and he explained that among this group of his he had raised $1,000,000 for the campaign fund in 1928.

It is equally true that the collapse of the market was brought about by the mad-dog policy of supremely selfish and greedy men, and we are not so sure it would be ungracious to fix upon them the responsibility.

We do not criticize the Governor's comment; merely point to it as evidence that he is not in the least liberal in dealing with the situation.

Following 'False Gods'

He says that among the leaders in the business world who mismanaged the business of the nation there has been a realization that they have been following "false gods" and that they are "heartily sorry for their sins of omission and commission." There was a time when we believed this to be true, and said so.

Seven or eight months ago, not a few of them were saying publicly that some radical reforms in business standards and methods would be necessary to save our present system. But we hear less of this today. There is reason to suspect that the old Bourbons, who never learn from experience, have been after the reformers in their midst and have stiffened them to stand for the old order. And that is just too bad.

The Governor comments sharply on the fact that the new business leadership required by the times has not developed or appeared:

"Nevertheless, more than two years have gone by and these leaders have as yet shown us few plans for the reconstruction of a better ordered civilization in which the economic freedom of the individual will be restored."

That is true; and the further truth is that we are afraid few of these old line leaders are remotely interested in restoring the "economic freedom of the individual." Their policies for 10 years, and more, have tended knowingly to the destruction of the economic freedom of the individual. Is it "radical" to say in print what thoughtful men whisper in their homes, that the whole trend has been toward the creation of an industrial feudalism? For that is the truth.

Thumbs Have Been Turned Down

Our own optimism on what these industrial leaders will do to better conditions and prevent a more deadly recurrence of the present situation has oozed out. We see no evidence of it anywhere.

On the contrary, the present idea is to preach that working men and the middle classes, so-called, have had standards of living that are too high. That they must reduce their standard of living—but nothing is being said about the others being content with more reasonable profits and reducing their standards of luxury.

Unemployment insurance—thumbs have been turned down on that.

Reduction of working days and hours to meet the menace of machinery—thumbs have been turned down on that.

But we do have from these groups the demand that there shall be less governmental interference with monopolistic enterprises, and that is not going forward in the interest of the economic freedom of the individual, but going back.

No Warning from Washington

All Gov. Roosevelt says, and says well, as to the tragedy in the lack of leadership in the national government reflects the general view. In so far as a state can act on evils that are national he sets forth a general program that should meet general approval. Something can, and must, be done to protect the public against the sale of unsound securities. He says:

"The time has come to differentiate between prospects and true values or at least to tell an unskilled public the whole truth about the contents of what in the past has been a package sold too often only because of the bright colors on the wrapper."

Millions of gullible Americans were ruined or badly crippled on the market during the floating of the G. O. P. bubble because they not only were not warned from Washington, but because from Washington came periodic assurances that all was as it seemed to the uninitiated on the surface.

The Unbanker-like Banking

We like particularly what he says about banks and banking. Everyone now knows that not least among the causes of our present troubles have been the unbanker-like banking. The Governor says:

"Unsound practices of the past must be eliminated by law from now on. The ethics of banking need restatement; savings must be managed as savings and not confused with commercial or checking deposits."

Some of the big banks opposed this "interference" with "their business" when something of the sort was proposed during the last session. The present session will be expected by the people to act for their better protection.

Who Could Oppose These Recommendations!

For labor, he reiterates recommendations that a Republican Legislature has refused to act upon before. We quote them from the message because hostility to them throws such a curious light on the Republican legislative mind:

"Extension of the workman's compensation law to cover all occupational diseases.

"The state regulation of fee-charging employment agencies.

"The declaration by law that the labor of human beings is not a commodity.

"The establishment for women and children of an advisory minimum fair wage board."

It seems incredible that any legislator with any concept of the relation of humanity to government could oppose at least the first, third and fourth of these.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Maybe you were too generous during the holiday season.

You spent more than your financial condition should permit.

You wished to impress your friends with your lavish gifts.

And perhaps this thought prompted you more than the love you were supposed to express in your Christmas gifts.

If you lost the Spirit of the Season you robbed it of its greatest joy.

And not only that, but if you have told the family that there will have to be some economy practiced because of what their gifts cost, you have taken from them the delight they might feel in your gifts.

If you have spent more liberally than you should, be a good sport and don't let anyone hear you complain.

Don't let anyone hear you say you regret what you expended.

There is no pleasure in receiving a present and then hearing about how much it cost in money, and how little the donor could afford it.

Real sentiment should go with gifts.

To give happiness should be the object in giving.

None wants a gift that is known to have overstepped financial bounds.

Be sensible. Be just, before you are generous, and, having spent too much, be a good sport and keep it to yourself.
